Tomaschtik leaving after 9 years' service

by IRIS MAYFIELD

Glenda Tomaschtik is leaving Antioch for the greener pastures of O'Neill, Neb., and a broadcaster's microphone.

She is resigning after nine years as director of parks and recreation.

Dist. 34 agrees to hold off mandates

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Board of Education of Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 will be joining with the Illinois Assn. of School Boards' resolution to hold off on any new education mandates and see to making the existing ones work, according to Dist. 34 Supt. Don Skidmore.

"Since the cut in Gov. Thompson's school funding, any new mandates are too costly," Skidmore told the board at its last regular meeting.

In other business, the board:

—Heard a report from Skidmore on teacher evaluations.

—Paid all outstanding interfund loans: $160,000 loan from the SC funds to the building fund, and a $50,000 loan from the building fund to the education fund.

—Accepted the low bid of $25,430 for a 71-passenger school bus from Antran of Illinois.

—Heard a report on the heat and electrical costs for the schools in the district. W.C. Petty costs the least for light, heat and air.

commercial, and selling ads."

Reflecting back on her accomplishments as head of parks and recreation, she said, "It was a very demanding job, I was the only full-time person."

She said it took four years to get the tumbling program off the ground, to find space and get mats. It's an ongoing program now.

Five years ago the summer camp program was in jeopardy - not enough signed up, she said. "Last year, 'Bingo!' we only took full-time. We used to take whatever we could get, a day or a half-day. We had 54 kids on a waiting list last summer."

Tomaschtik said she had to talk her way through getting the Christmas parade at night. "Nothing but positive reactions," she said.

Tomaschtik will now be talking her way through KBRX radio station in O'Neill, which is about the size of Antioch, and all farms and ranches, she said.

Her decision to move was personal and financial. "My family wanted me to move back," she said. Tomaschtik is single and has two children; Ryan, 14, and Crisini, 10.

"My son may (work with) animals," she said, adding, "He helped his grandmother with chickens."

Tomaschtik considers her move adventurous after living in Antioch for 15 years.

When asked about a replacement for Tomaschtik, Village Clerk Marilyn Sterbenz said, "I don't know if we're going to absorb it or what, but I know the board is not going to do anything immediately."

Tree cut because of split trunk

After the Snowstorm of '87 a picture of fir trees on Main St. bent into an arch by heavy snows ran in the Antioch News-Reporter just as the village streets department arrived to shake the snow off of the branches.

This week, the newspaper had several complaint calls that the streets department had cut down the tree in question.

Tim Wells, head of the streets and maintenance department, said that the tree was split at the bottom of the trunk, the break probably caused by the weight of the snow, so he had his men cut it down.

Combined honeymoon, wedding classy package

by JIM WARNKEN

President, North Star Travel Inc.

Today many couples are skipping the large, expensive weddings for less formal ceremonies, but still desire a nice honeymoon. Why not combine the two and get married on your honeymoon?

You can have a honeymoon in Jamaica with the wedding ceremony right at your resort, the wedding adding only about $100 to your hotel stay. This would include the license, witnesses and government duty stamp. The only requirements are proof of citizenship (i.e. birth certificate, voter's registration, etc.) and a 24-hour waiting period. Divorcees will need a copy of the original certificate of divorce.

Resorts offering marriage ceremonies are Eden II, Couples, Sandals and Jamaica Jamaica. Other romantic locations in Jamaica for weddings would be Shaw Park Gardens, Dunns River Falls and Carinosa Gardens, all in Ocho Rios. Sunset on the beaches in Negril would also be a perfect spot for a wedding. (Sure beats the courthouse in Waukegan!)

Jamaica is not your style? There's always Vegas. Requirements here are not much more than show-up at the courthouse with $25. The courthouse is open, by the way, 24 hours a day on weekends and until midnight on weekdays. This is Vegas! Blood tests are not required and there is no waiting period.

There are many wedding chapels in Vegas, some right in the casinos. Imperial Palace has one, as does Circus Circus. (It's called Circus Circus Chapel of the Fountains.) Others go by names such as Hitching Post Wedding Chapel, Cupid's Wedding Chapel, We've Only Just Begun Wedding Chapel, and the less pretentious Las Vegas Wedding Chapel. All provide complete packages including a video tape of the wedding if desired.

Getting married on a cruise ship could also be a memorable wedding. There are a few misconceptions here, though. No, the captain of the ship cannot marry you. (Those marriages are only good for the duration of the cruise!) You also cannot be married at sea. The wedding must take place before the ship leaves port. The cruise line will often provide a public room for the reception. If your cruise leaves from Florida, the requirements are very liberal. As in Las Vegas, there is no waiting period or blood test required. You must have proof of identity and $25. The courthouse is located very near the cruise port and is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Many ministers are available for the services. In fact, Florida law allows a notary public to perform weddings.

Citizens for better zoning schedule meeting

by IRIS MAYFIELD

Members of "Citizens for Better Building and Zoning," will hold a public meeting Jan. 9 in an attempt to rouse the Lake County Board to action.

Member Mary Campbell said she went to each member of the County Board with a complaint.

She said each member gave the same reply, "I'm only one person. What can I do?" Campbell said, "It's like they rehearsed it in a closet." The citizen's group has formed through a concern over what they believe is inadequate enforcement of building and zoning ordinances in unincorporated west Lake County. They hope the Jan. 9 meeting will draw other concerned citizens.

The public meeting will take place at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday at the Lake Villa Twp. Hall, 37908 N. Fairfield Rd., Lake Villa. Charter members of the group include Jeff Lieber, Bruce Padbury, Jo Garrett, Jim Gardner and Gloria Carrick.

In a statement to the County Board, they said, "We hold you, the Lake County Board, responsible for the building a zoning department's shoddy, selective, retaliatory and discriminatory enforcement of the ordinances you have created."

Prostitution case ends as five defendants wait

by IRIS MAYFIELD

Closing arguments were made Monday in Milwaukee for the prostitution case involving the WWI club in Kenosha County and WWII Club in Lake County.

During the trial, which started Nov. 18, bizarre testimony unfolded about the use of a house, called St. Michael's Church, located just north of the state line.

The church, a dwelling in Pleasant Prairie, was used to disguise transactions of a nearby nightclub and massage parlor, assistant U.S. attorney Nathan Fishbach told jurors.

He said the church was part of the prostitution and gambling ring that operated for about eight years in Wisconsin and Illinois. It was closed down in 1986 by the sheriff's office, the FBI and the IRS.

John P. Doerr, 48, one of the defendants, gave testimony about the house that served as a church. Doerr and Josephine Christofalos, 54, of Lake Bluff, were charged with interstate promotion of prostitution and conspiracy to impede the IRS.

Further testimony unfolded how prostitution receipts over $21 million were listed as donations in the bookkeeping of the Holy Temple of Christ Redeemer Church, Fishbach said.

During the trial Doerr was addressed as Reverend by Fishbach. Doerr described himself as pastor of St. Michael's Southern Catholic Orthodox Church. Doerr had organized a church in Michigan several years before arriving in Wisconsin.

Defense attorneys argued Doerr knew nothing about prostitution between 1978 and 1986 at the WWI Club, which was known by various names over the years.

Doerr denied testimony that his son told him about nude dancers who sold sexual favors to customers. Doerr's son, Dale D. Doerr, 24, of South Lake Tahoe, Calif. is also accused of interstate prostitution in the case, along with Archie J. Pixley, 44, of Pleasant Prairie and his wife Christa Pixley, 31.

During the trial, jurors were told, RH Credit Systems Inc. was established to funnel customers' credit-card payments by mail through a New York office.

The defense argued that if there was incidental prostitution at the businesses, it contradicted the written policies of management.

Mrs. Christofalos was in charge of the businesses after the unsolved shotgun slaying of her husband George Christofalos in 1979 in Lake County.

Medical economics: The year in review by LEO W. TANNENBAUM, M.D.

Review of the year's medical economics is in order. Leaving out what government regulation and insurance manipulation of medical care have wrought in 1987 would be to ignore the greatest influence on our health.

Starting with Medicare both of these powers have changed how we will be treated and will affect how long we live. It all centers on money. DRG's (Diagnostic Related Groups) continued to get a tighter grip on whether you are of the diagnosis related groups this, followed to the letter, would mean that a doctor treating a patient couldn't do anything else. Call this cookie cutting; everyone is assumed to be identical and gets well by a prearranged plan.

This year Medical Insurance, HMO, and even the Medicare premiums are either slated to go up or to offer less coverage for the same money. Premiums for the doctor's malpractice insurance have also increased, only more so. If, in some states, an obstetrician pays nearly $60,000 a year, how much should he charge for prenatal care and delivery? Some doctors solved this problem by early retirement, moving to another state or giving up delivery of babies.

Some HMO's went out of business leaving patients stranded. New ones started up. One that went bankrupt had been complained about for three years. But it was hard for the government to step in and close down something it was promoting. Especially since one or two government employees had quit and gone to work for that HMO! Strangel, that HMO was given special consideration in allowing a larger enrollment of Medicare age patients than other HMO's.

They get more sick and if they're 50 percent of enrollees that's a blueprint for disaster. HMO enrollment has increased in 1987 but the people at Medicare are looking for other ways to go. The public has surrendered; it will settle for less care if only the cost is less.

Musings. In 1987 the government has continued to regulate medical care for economy's sake. Only more so. It is doing this by expensive bureaucracies that make studies and computerize the findings. Some real beauties have resulted.

The decision was made to step up the pressure in telling the patient where to go. For this a list of "Preferred Physicians" is published. The list was derived from doctors who persistently, over a specified period of time, didn't do the procedures or tests that the government didn't want.

If this confuses you, restated this means that they cost the government less. No one has proved that the quality of care was the same. It would be impossible to see if the patient mix is substantially the same. If this government maneuver brings them more of the very sick patients, similar expense may result. There is never a guarantee that any physician can maintain the same batting average.

Another gem. Hospitals' mortality statistics are now to be made public. Restated, the implication is that more people die in one hospital than another. This panicked some hospitals. The flaw, in this again, is that hospitals are not strictly comparable. Some already have rules that they can't take some of the more mortal illnesses.

The statistics are already distorted by some that strongly lean to being "acute care" institutions that have helpful social workers whose main work is to help the "chronic" to find a nursing home.

Some hospitals do not take AIDS patients; some do not take emergency patients who need critical care. And finally, the results can be jimmied by setting new policies purposely not to admit certain kinds of patients or moving them home or to a convalescent institution, if need be, to improve statistics.

The care of the sick is in a very dynamic state. Volumes could be written about 1987. A New Year's resolution for our well-being is to become informed; let those who represent us know we're watching.

Medical Musings

By Dr. Leo Tannenbaum

admitted to or how long you stay in the hospital.

Interference with what tests your doctor may order and what treatment he may give this year was progressively evident. Charts at the hospital formerly were checked after the patient's discharge. Although this lowered costs by decreasing the number of days the government would pay for, or even refusal to pay anything, this didn't save enough.

Dissatisfaction with the people making the decisions resulted in replacing several peer review (PRO) groups with others charging Medicare less and adding extra work to check the quality of care. This was intended to satisfy senior citizens. Also, to 12 groups guiding Medicare savings, the government added two more bureaucracies. This will really save money.

Once the government cut costs or services the insurance companies usually follow and apply it to all age groups. Insurance people and HMO's are taking the initiative in deciding, beforehand, as to whether the patient should be admitted at all.

Having decided over the years that if doctors did things outside the hospital, money would be saved, the Medicare people have another idea. In 1987 the government is taking a hard look at what they will be earning if they do more outpatient work. Although they are only doing what they were told to do, there is open expression of hostility at an increased percentage of the pie doctors might get.

Meanwhile anyone who cares to look at hospitals will notice that outpatient charges for use of their facilities are creeping toward what they were as inpatient charges. They have empty beds with less income. They have to do something to stay open, don't they? Fifty seven small hospitals in Texas alone have closed.

This year there has been open expression of disenchantment with Medicare by both Social Security's arm for Medicare, the Health Care Financial Authority (HCFA) and by the public. HCFA thinks that everyone is charging too much. The public thinks that sometimes patients are being sent home too early and even die because of the present rules.

Kusserow, the supercop I've written about, has found a few more miscreants that he can prosecute or censure for cheating. For the first time, the doctors, so censured, are getting a more fair hearing before their livelihood is endangered. He believes that the system will work if the doctors have acceptable plans before the patients are admitted.

Since the government would have to decide what's acceptable for each one

Antioch gets TIF payment

The Village of Antioch has received two payments from the Dept. of Revenue for Tax Increment Financing (TIF) based on the growth of sales taxes in the village in 1985-86.

The total state sales tax growth in Antioch for that period is $64,614.76. Because of its TIF Dist., the village has received two payments based on it sales tax growth, one for $8,921 and another for $33,986.45, totaling $42,907.99.

The TIF Dist. is primarily located at the north end of Main St. where many of the village's oldest commercial buildings are undergoing refurbishing and remodeling.

Of the 136 TIF Dists. in Illinois, only 85 showed some growth in sales tax and 51 received no revenue department monies at all because of the lack of a sales tax increase.

With a new law passed in 1986, TIF Dists. can also recapture the increase in state sales tax in the area. With this new law, the number of TIF Dists. have expanded from 37 to 136.

Of the $10 million allocated for the state this year from sales and tax growth, half went to only six cities, Highland Park, Belleville, DeKalb, Rockford, Granite City and Kankakee.

Supreme Court sets back Liberty Lakes proposal

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

The Illinois Supreme Court has finally handed down a decision that even proponents concede is probably the death blow to the proposed sprawling Village of Liberty Lakes.

Early last summer, proponents of the village were heard by the Illinois Supreme Court. They maintained that the county board would be acting in a judicial capacity rather than a legislative capacity if allowed to make a determination on two points:

- 1) Whether the proposed village conforms to the county's comprehensive plan and,
- 2) Whether the proposed village would have a sufficient tax base to provide the services that a village is required to.

Had the supreme court ruled in their favor, it would have allowed proponents of incorporation to bypass the county board and go directly to the circuit court for a determination.

Instead, the court, in a decision written by Justice Seymour Simon, determined that the county board authority in the process is proper.

"If the legislature intended the determinations of compatibility with the official plan and sufficiency of the tax base to be adjudicated," the decision said, "there would have been no reason to place those questions in the hands of a decisionmaker other than the circuit judge. The fact that these issues are addressed to the judgment of the county board, whose favorable determinations are a prerequisite to any proceeding before the circuit judge, strongly suggests that the county board was not meant to function as an adjudicative body."

"We detect no constitutional infirmity in this delegation of authority to the county board. The judgement of the circuit court of Lake County is therefore affirmed."

The sprawling community would have covered most unincorporated areas of Lake Villa Twp. and would have covered parts of unincorporated Avon, Grant and Antioch Twp., as well. While the case was pending, developments in Round Lake Beach and Round Lake Heights were put on hold. Both proponents and opponents have been anxiously awaiting a ruling since last July.

In a prepared statement, proponents of incorporation complained bitterly that this ruling "is a classic case of what is wrong with our judicial system."

"There was a time when the court would strike down such arbitrary laws as clearly unconstitutional. We cited a number of such cases. But they were old cases from a time when the court was vigilant and courageous. The modern judicial trend has been to condone the growth of arbitrary political power so long as sensitive issues like race or religion are not involved."

The County Board had already determined that there was not a sufficient tax base to support the proposed horseshoe-shaped village before the issue went to court.

Lindenhurst Mayor Bob Ratch said that the decision was a sound one. "Our efforts to educate the people as to what this really was were successful," he said. "No objective person could look at this and come to any determination other than that Liberty Lakes was a 'paper village' without a sufficient tax base to provide basic services."

Ratch said that most of the proponents of Liberty Lakes are

Cum laude status for ACHS valedictorians

There will now always be valedictorians and salutatorians speaking at Antioch High School graduations.

At the last regular meeting of the board of education, the board approved a recommendation that their status be replaced with a cum laude status at 4.85 grade point average.

In another move, the board okayed a certificate of levy totaling $4.6 million, representing an increase of 13 percent over the previous levy.

The board also presented past board members Robert M. Lindblad and Michael P. Zeien a resolution and a plaque recognizing their years of service and dedication to the Antioch High School Board.

Board curriculum committee chairman, Jan Ranney, presented the following curriculum changes for the 1988-89 school year: math department course structured programming (Pascal) was changed from a one-year course to a one-semester course.

In the science department, an advanced placement course in biology was added, a science survey course was added to replace basic biology, an honors physical science course was added and a year course in physical science for sophomores, juniors and seniors who need a second year course in science that is accepted for entrance into college.

A one-semester course titled creative writing II was added to the English department curriculum.

Placed on hold for 1988-89, pending definitive cost estimates, were a one-year course in auto shop and a one-semester course titled introduction to automotive.

Health education was changed from a non-academic course to an academic course. All of the recommendations were approved by the board.

Ranney also presented a policy for weighting the grades of courses that are academically challenging. For each course receiving weighted grade status, one additional grade point will be awarded to earned grades of A, B or C.

The board approved the following courses for weighted grade status for 1988-89: Spanish IV, German IV, political theory, honors U.S. History, physiology, honors physical science, college prep physics, A.P. biology, structured programming, trigonometry, analysis, honors algebra I, honors geometry, honors algebra II, honors English II, honors English III, English IV, and honors architectural drawing.

A standing faculty/administration committee is to be formed to continuously monitor, evaluate and recommend expansion, additions or changes to the weighted grade system.

Board budget committee chairman Frank Walsh Jr. reported that the budget committee had reviewed the current budget to determine possible areas to reduce costs for the current year and potential savings during the next fiscal year.

In other business, the board:

- approved the 1988-89 school calendar as presented by Supt. Gary Allen. School is scheduled to begin on Aug. 29 and end June 13.

- Supt. Allen reported that the Illinois State Board of Education had extended full recognition to Antioch Community High School for the 1987-88 school term.

- the board acknowledged the receipt of a check in the amount of $2,000 from the Lindenhurst Soccer League. The money will be used to help pay for the expenses of developing Polley Field.

politically ambitious people who plan to run for office. He added that the Liberty Lakes proposal was not truly a request to create a village, but a roundabout method of controlling growth.

"I don't think it is realistic to believe you can stop growth in a suburban county such as this," Ratch said. "The important thing is to make sure to accept growth that will be good for the community. That is what we in Lin-denhurst and officials in the Village of Lake Villa will do."

Proponents of Liberty Lakes maintained that the decision gives a "group of politicians absolute power to veto an election. If the politicians decide that a healthy tax is somehow inadequate, as happened in our case, that's all there is to it. Instead of holding ballots, the voters can only hold their noses."

Fitness center hosts instructor workshop

Over 20 fitness instructors from local facilities attended a holiday fitness instructor workshop held at DJ's Fitness & Racquet Center in Antioch.

The workshop provided aerobic instructors with new ideas and innovative techniques to keep their current students enthusiastic and to motivate new class participants to continue exercising with a safe and effective fitness program. Lisa Elsinger of Lake Geneva and Katie Spies of Antioch shared their knowledge and techniques in the five-hour seminar.

Both presenters are certified and have extensive backgrounds in the fitness industry.

Elsinger is head fitness instructor at the Americana Resort Fitness Centre in Lake Geneva, and has been a featured speaker at fitness conventions and educational conferences. She conducted a workshop on original low-impact choreography, and upper body conditioning using weight training principles.

Spies, who is manager of DJ's Fitness Center, and opening a new studio in Grayslake called Body Business, presented a Dynaband workshop and a segment on lower body toning including abdominals, thigh and gluteals. An information update on safety and injury prevention was presented in addition to the newest techniques in fitness instruction and instructor networking opportunities.

Inglis will seek new Appellate Court seat

Judge Lawrence D. (Larry) Inglis has announced that he will be seeking the Republican Party's nomination for the "A" seat on the Appellate Court of the Second Judicial District. A recently enacted state law has created two new judgeships for the Appellate Court. Judge Inglis currently sits as an Appellate Judge of this District having received a Supreme Court appointment to this seat in 1986.

Since his appointment in 1986, Judge Inglis has participated in over 300 appeals cases, writing the decisions in 100 of them. The Appellate Court of the Second Judicial District hears appeals of Circuit Court decisions in 13 counties, including Boone, Carroll, DeKalb, DuPage, Jo Daviess, Kane, Kendall, Lake, Lee, McHenry, Ogle, Stephenson and Winnebago. Judge Inglis, a 1960 graduate of University of Illinois, College of Law, was first elected to the 19th Judicial Circuit in 1980. In 1986, he was retained by the voters by a wide margin.

A graduate of the National Judicial College, Judge Inglis is on the New Judge Seminar faculty and an adjunct professor at Chicago Medical School, lecturing in forensic medicine. He founded the Illinois "Walk Through a Civil Trial" program, and created a public awareness program for the Circuit Court.

Golden Dragon Acrobats to open Paramount

The Paramount Arts Centre schedule for the first half of 1988 has become busier. True to the form of 1987, the additional performances will offer variety and big name quality.

Astounding feats of beauty, charm and daring will be seen at either performance. Ticket prices are $14, $12 and $10.

On Saturday, May 14 at 5:30 and 9 p.m., Charlie Pride will be at the Paramount. Tickets to see this long-time country music star will not go on sale until Jan. 4, so be prepared that day to get the very best seats. Tickets for Charlie Pride are $19.50, $18.50 and $16.50.

Last but not least on Sunday, June 5 at 3 p.m. The Stars of the Lawrence Welk Show will be featured. This means that Jo Ann Castle, Ralna

North Shore Gas to refund and trim rates

After months of negotiations, North Shore Gas Company has filed a proposal with the Illinois Commerce Commission seeking to refund $1.1 million to gas users in Waukegan and 55 other communities and trim future rates by $2.9 million annually.

An affiliate, Peoples Gas Light and Coke

Company, likewise proposed to refund $8.8 million and reduce future rates by $14.5 million per year. Both utilities are subsidiaries of Peoples Energy Corporation.

The companies said the proposed refunds—if approved—would start early next month and will pass along to consumers the benefits of the lower federal income tax rate. The utilities serve nearly a million customers in Chicago and communities along the North Shore.

The actions outlined in Friday's petitions to the commission reflect an agreement reached after months of negotiations between the utilities and several parties. The utilities entered these discussions at the request of the commission's staff in order to avoid lengthy hearings to resolve matters concerning the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

Under proposals presented to the commission, the refunds will be made as a one-time credit on customers' bills starting Jan. 7, the beginning of the companies' billing cycle.

For the average home using gas for heating, cooking and water heating, the one-time credit would amount to about $8 for North Shore customers and $7 for Chicago users.

Both companies have proposed that the rate reductions go into effect on Jan. 1, or as soon as possible thereafter. The average North Shore home using gas for heating, cooking and water heating would pay about $22 less per year, while a similar Chicago user would be charged about $12 less.

Savings resulted from Friday's actions are in addition to those which have been passed along to customers through the utilities' efforts to purchase lower-cost gas supplies. During the last 12 months, North Shore has saved its customers about $16 million by buying directly from producers and brokers on the open market. Similar purchase by Peoples Gas have resulted in savings of nearly $95 million for its customers.

In addition, both companies have been able to hold the line on raising their distribution rates and have not had a general increase since September, 1984. The companies noted that their customers continue to enjoy gas rates that are among the lowest of the country's major metropolitan areas.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

FROM THE OFFICE OF
DR. PAUL ABLER
FASCIITIS

Planter fasciitis is a common cause of pain under the heels in adult men and women. The pain develops for no apparent reason, and worsens when weight is placed upon the foot. The pain can become so bad that some people can only hobble around with one foot held off the ground.

When your podiatrist examines the foot, everything looks normal. When the foot is palpated, however, the bottom of the heel will feel tender, and there will be a point that is more painful than others. This painful spot is similar to that found in "tennis elbow."

Treatment may include use of a heel pad, hydrocortisone injections, shoe wedges, physical therapy and/or surgery.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy 1988 from

Change is in our future

As we enter the new year, Lake County is undergoing tremendous changes, changes that affect the way we do business, the way government is run, how we get health care, and how our neighborhoods will look.

The long-predicted explosion in development in west Lake County has arrived. Almost every week, another shopping center or housing development is announced in one of the towns that dot the county.

The growth of economic development corporations in most villages has led to a higher level of commercial and retail development in most of our towns. These entities are specifically geared to go after business development. Village officials, many of whom were burned by spotty, poorly-planned residential developments in the '70s and early '80s are casting a jaundiced eye at the pretty "artists' conceptions" that developers invariably provide. Most village officials have learned that the performance doesn't meet the promise unless it is put in writing.

After discovering the hidden costs of residential development, local officials have put a premium on commercial and retail projects - thus the rise of economic development corporations.

Just a few years ago, officials in neighboring municipalities could barely recognize each other, much less discuss mutual problems. That has changed dramatically. Perhaps because of the tangle of knotty problems left to drift by the County Board for so many years, there is suddenly a plethora of intergovernmental agreements (agreements to share authority over a common problem amongst several distinct governing bodies) to deal with the big problems. The coming crisis on solid waste is being dealt with by the Joint Action Solid Waste Agency, a group of villages, cities and the county. The outlook is for some firm decisions to be made in the coming year. Lake Michigan water, which has been discussed for years, is finally on track, thanks to the efforts of another group of local officials working in concert with each other.

Perhaps not so coincidentally, as officials get together to find solutions to these problems, they have ended up comparing notes on other problems and procedures in their own communities. Seldom are officials in one town caught by surprise at the plans of another.

In the last year, Lake County saw the sale of St. Therese Hospital in Waukegan. In the next year, it is almost certain to see a Humana Hospital going up in North Chicago. It will probably also see financial woes hitting some of its hospitals. Long hospital stays are falling by the wayside with the growth of clinics and the emphasis on outpatient services whenever possible.

It is certainly a different county, and a different world, than what our parents grew up in. This new year seems likely to bring in changes more sweeping than any other of the past decade.

Students need protection

On Jan. 5, a group of parents will appear before the North Chicago Community High School Board of Education. They will ask that the board take prompt action to insure the safety of students who attend the high school.

The parents have good cause for concern. Students report they are getting beat up by thugs at the school with alarming frequency. Teachers are reportedly intimidated by students who carry weapons.

Serious stuff here.

But you wouldn't know it from Principle Gordon Hill's response. Approached by Lakeland Newspapers to comment on what actions the school is taking to insure the safety of its students, Hill responded with platitudes.

"It (security) has improved significantly over the past two years," he said. "I'm pleased with the progress we have made."

Good grief! Kids are afraid to come to school in the morning, teachers are intimidated by young thugs, and the principle says things have improved? How bad were they before?

There can't be much learning when students live in fear for their safety. Both students, and their parents, deserve a serious response to this most serious problem.

We hope that the board of education does not follow the lead of its principle when parents show up asking that action be taken.

We're taking Gary and Rob too seriously

by BILL SCHROEDER

For pure cussedness, Gary Hart and Rob Sherman are hard to top. Both are making a business of foisting their personal beliefs on America, Hart insisting that the road to the White House is strewn with bikini-clad lovelies and Sherman persisting that God has nothing to do with all the goodness about us. Wouldn't it be fun to see these two tangle in debate? Ask Gary if this isn't a land of goodies!

Hart and Sherman are alike in a number of ways. Both have egos that would crush a Sherman tank. They are skilled at tweaking our sensibilities. They are willing to suffer more public abuse than a Madison St. panhandler and they possess the staying power of poor relatives. And both are bullies!

Sherman, the atheist who operates out of Buffalo Grove, keeps snooping around easy targets like Libertyville and Mundelein in search of Nativity scenes on public property. He tried to make a big deal out of a lighted star atop the Wauconda water tower. Redoubtable Rob opens his mouth and officials run for their lawyers. We'd like to see him venture into Hainesville to deal with Mayor George Benjamin, who has a scowl and a growl that will spark a nuclear melt-down. Sherman claims he knows a lot about God or the absence of a supreme being. How come he doesn't take on somebody like Dr. Bill Dam, mayor of Fox Lake, who is thoroughly familiar with religious beliefs besides medical and municipal things? Mayor Dam once studied to be a priest, and he served in Africa as a medical missionary. Come on, Rob. Put up your dukes.

Hart knows that Americans are shock-proof and have short memories. Hart figures he can inflict his insufferable conduct on the nation because we only remember baseball averages and Superbowl winners. If Hart isn't badgering and intimidating the nation, then a new definition for bully has to be invented. Gary, you think you're a tough guy. Who won Superbowl VIII? What was Wayne Terwilliger's batting average his last year with the Cubs?

Gary Hart and Rob Sherman can get away with their shenanigans because, besides having short memories, Americans have lost their sense of humor. Used to be that any wisecrack with an eye for a skirt and a yen for public office would get laughed out of the neighborhood saloon if he threatened to run for president. Instead of ordering another round and enjoying the joke, the 10 o'clock news cameras are trotted out and the pollsters are summoned. Before America lost its ability to have a good laugh, how far would a guy like Rob Sherman get claiming that Nativity scenes have no place at the village hall? The local jokers would pull down Rob's hat and his socks, throw him out in the snow bank and order another beer.

Get serious, Gary and Rob. Get off it! You guys are too much. Run for president? Keep God out of the village hall? Be serious. Let's have another beer. Now, remember the time the Cards sent Emil Verban to the North Side? Was there ever a better Superbowl quarterback than Bart Starr?

Against grade leveling

Editor:

The current proposal for grade leveling in Antioch School Dist. 34 is indeed questionable. I don't believe Dr. Skidmore or the school board has our children's best interest in focus. To disrupt a young child's first few school years is a matter which deserves careful research and study.

Dr. Skidmore and the board are doing neither. At a recent school board meeting, President Ed Haley cited support for the plan saying, "An Antioch woman thinks the proposal is fine. It will give her an opportunity to make more money babysitting." What kind of reasoning is this?! To disrupt our children's environment every few years, at young, impressionable ages, is ludicrous.

Committees were in fact formed to study the issue, but were given absolutely no direction or instruction. To make matters worse, the time frame was over Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's. A coincidence, I think not. The whole proposal smells of hidden information and lacks credibility. At the board meetings, concerned parents' questions are quickly criticized and dismissed. It's all too obvious minds are already made up.

I challenge Dr. Skidmore, Dist. 34 principals, and the school board to keep the parents informed, be objective, and above all be open-minded to the parents they supposedly serve.

'...and the envelope please,' local notables of 1987

YES FOLKS, IT'S time once again for Just Politics' annual awards of distinction (sometimes dubious distinction) to local notables.

The "You can't keep a good man down" award: to Lake County Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox of Grayslake, who is recovering from major surgery to his stomach. After being written off as a major factor in Lake County politics, Babcox stomach has, in the last few weeks, been healing marvelously. He may yet be the first Lake County Executive.

Just Politics

By Charles Johnston

The "Tareyton I'd rather switch than fight" award: to Ron Prindle of Round Lake Beach. A lifetime Democrat, Prindle was a Democratic Precinct Committeeman, Chairman of the Avon Twp. Democratic Club, and sergeant-at-arms of the Lake County Democratic Central Committee. On the last day of filing, he announced his conversion to Republican ranks and filed petitions to run for Republican Precinct Committeeman.

The "Majority of one" award: to Lake County Board member and Republican Party Chairman Bob Neal of Wadsworth. Neal proposed that the present method of county government be replaced by a county executive form. The county executive will be elected at-large. If it passes, the two parties' candidates will be selected by their respective central committees. Neal, of course, is an announced candidate for the job.

The "Hey, we're just looking out for the folksies" award: to the 23 County Board members besides Bob Neal. Though they usually can't agree on the color of money, they immediately and unanimously came out foursquare against Neal's proposal for a county executive. Of course, none were concerned that such a system would cut dramatically into their power. No, they were all motivated by altruistic concerns for the people's welfare. Some even argued that it would keep government "closer to the people" by allowing 24 County Board members to select the head of government rather than all the voters of Lake County. Say what?

The "Oh say, can you see" award: to Dist. 6 County Board members Bruce Hansen, C. Richard Anderson, and John Reindl. This merry trio discovered muck oozing from the ground near the Wauconda Sand & Gravel Pit. Before having it tested to see if it was hazardous, they called a press conference to announce that it was. It wasn't.

The "You'll always be number one in our hearts" award: to Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka of Arbor Vista. This perennial lament of homecoming losers will apply to the Bears within a few weeks if they don't find the spark which thrilled a nation two years ago.

The "I want it all" award: to Adeline Geo-Karis of Zion. The erstwhile state senator couldn't make up her mind who to support as mayor of her hometown, Zion. So she supported herself - and won easily. Now hometown constituents address her as Mayor Senator, while other constituents address her as Senator Mayor. Those who are confused still just call her "Geo."

The "Now you see him, now you don't" award: a tie to the two Bobs, Depke and Grever, supervisors of Warren and Ela Twp. respectively. Depke had planned to run for county board in Dist. 5 but never filed. Grever filed in Dist. 6 but withdrew in favor of incumbent Jerry Beyer and Wayne Miller. Depke is expected to either seek the nomination for county executive or a nomination in two years, when he can run against Mike Graham. Observers also expect Grever to get the nod of regular Republicans for a seat in two years.

The "From here to eternity" award: to County Board Chairman Jim Fields of Antioch. He rose from quiet obscurity to become the compromise choice for chairman after 139 ballots earlier in the year. Now he is in the fight of his life to retain his seat on the board at the March primary. He and fellow Dist. 4 incumbent Fred Popp of Lake Villa face the toughest challenge of any board members from Larry Leafblad of Avon Twp. and Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa.

Drunk driving accidents are a national disgrace

by DIANE K. STEED

Drunk driving remains the number one killer on our roads, striking with a frequency and ferocity that would be national news if its victims were reported in total each day instead of individually in the obituaries in thousands of cities and towns where the tragedies occur. Its victims are a cross-section of America; the rich, the poor, the young, the old, the safety-conscious and the not-so-safety-conscious. But they share a common demise that is always unexpected, always needless and often grudgingly tolerated because our social norms won't quite permit them to be characterized as other than accidental deaths.

For many years in this country, we talked about drunk driving in statistical terms only: lives lost and public expenditures. The higher the numbers, the more the public would pay attention, or so we thought. But the opposite was true. The numbers were largely ignored because they were, after all, just numbers. There were no faces or shattered lives attached to tug at the heartstrings.

But something changed all that in the early 1980's. Citizen activist groups, like Mothers Against Drunk Driving, moved drunk driving off the bar graphs and brought it up close and personal, laying its dire consequences squarely on the doorsteps of virtually every American community.

Suddenly the blinders came off, the outrage swelled and things began to change—and change dramatically.

Thanks to that awakening, the United States, to its credit, has made remarkable progress in just a handful of years. Forty-one percent of the total traffic deaths in 1986 involved at least one driver or pedestrian who was intoxicated, a shocking figure but one that represents a significant decline from the 46 percent that was tallied in 1982. The percentage of intoxicated teenage drivers involved in fatal crashes also dropped, from 28 percent in 1982 to 21 percent in 1986, the largest decrease among all age groups.

As promising as the improved statistics are, they are not much comfort to the families and friends of the 19,000 people who were killed last year in alcohol-related crashes. We are holding our own—keeping things from getting worse—but are still a long way from the point where we can drive our roads, reasonably assured that the approaching car or truck is not driven by someone who has had too much to drink.

Letters Invited

Letters to the editor are welcome. They should be on topics of general interest, approximately 250 words or less. All letters must be signed, and contain home address and telephone number. The editor reserves the right to condense all letters.

Alcohol has played and probably will continue to play a major role in how we socialize in this country. The challenge is to convince people to use alcohol in moderation and to avoid driving after drinking. This is especially true during the Christmas and New Year's holiday season when travel increases, office parties abound and it's common to get together with family, friends and neighbors for a "little holiday cheer."

Tougher laws, more enforcement and increased public and media attention over the past few years helped reduce alcohol-related crashes by nearly 30 percent in some parts of the nation. Many responsible people have gotten the message and have modified their drinking habits for the better. But the problem is far from solved and complacency should not replace the concern and anger of the early 1980's that motivated government, the private sector and citizens' groups to stop wringing hands over drunk driving and start fighting it.

We continue to be too tolerant of a dangerous minority who leave parties, bars and restaurants with attitudes like, "I drive better when I'm drunk." "I only had a few," and "Nobody drives my car but me."

It may be difficult as a host to stick your neck out and actively prevent someone from driving who has been celebrating too much. But isn't it better to call a cab, offer a ride or provide a bed than to allow friends or co-workers to put themselves and everyone else at risk?

The old adage about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure is particularly appropriate when developing strategies to curb drunk drivers. Remember, drunk driving is preventable, and drinking too much and then getting behind the wheel and killing someone is not an accidental event. People know better today, and we should all be held accountable for our actions.

The concept of accountability is dependent on public awareness. The news media has played a significant role in bringing about a greater awareness of the drunk driving problem. In fairness, an unprecedented amount of news and public service time has been devoted to the subject for a far longer period of time than most issues. But as media attention wanes, the public's awareness and heightened sensitivity wane with it. Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week is the one special week during the year when we stop and take stock of something that deserves special emphasis.

Drunk driving is not only a national tragedy—it is a national disgrace. As we begin 1988, let each of us individually resolve to do our part to eliminate this disgrace and make it a resolution that is kept.

Watch thin ice

Editor:

Many children who get ice skates for Christmas will want to try them out.

Nowhere is the ice thick enough to support them at this time. With this in mind, I respectfully suggest you keep a close watch on all streams, ponds and lakes. If you see anyone out there, chase them off at once.

If you gave your children ice skates for Christmas, put them away after they have seen them until the ice is thick enough to support their weight.

Board commended

Editor:

From the founding of Green Oaks in 1960 many of the village officials have prided themselves on retaining the rural nature of the community. This has been evidenced recently by the support they have given to residents in the northern part of the village as well as neighboring homeowners in Warren Township.

Many thanks to them for the time spent in attending meetings and rezoning hearings before the Waukegan Developmental Commission.

We commend the village board, the township board and the Pritzker family for their actions and resolve in preserving the environment of this area. We look forward to a similar beneficial plan for the remaining 500 acres.

Captive media

Editor:

Much was said about poor voter turnout in the past Nov. 3 election. Much could be said about poor press coverage on issues concerning the voter public that spurs voter participation.

People are tired of voting only to have their votes ignored. The June 29, 1985 Warren Township High School bond referendum drew the largest turnout for that type of election, according to County Clerk Linda Hess. The referendum was defeated. The people spoke, only to have the board take another avenue to gain what they wanted in the first place.

The press put their stamp of approval on the "destroyed" by fire version and never printed that the school was only "damaged" by the fire. When people are not informed on issues (that is the job of the media) they become apathetic. In this case the people are saying "no" to the entire system and are staying away from the polls. A wrong move on their part because they must become involved and in order for public involvement, the press must print accurate and complete coverage.

Has the news media become so politically captive that they can't inform the public on all sides of an issue? Do we really have a free press?

Mortgage companies sometimes neglect escrow

by GARY S. MEYERS

One of the surest ways to wind up homeless is to neglect paying your real estate taxes, or maybe your home insurance—and then have a fire.

But thousands of American homeowners face such risks, even after they have actually paid their taxes and insurance. The problem arises when homeowners make their tax and insurance payments to their mortgage lenders, who then do not pass the money on.

When buying a new home, the mortgage lender holds you responsible for making timely monthly payments on mortgage, real estate taxes and insurance.

In fact, lenders frequently require borrowers to pay into an escrow account for covering these obligations. The lender thus reduces its risk of losing the house to foreclosure or fire if the homeowner falls behind on the bills.

While it's clearly in the interest of the mortgage company to keep the escrow account up to date, companies don't always do so. And unbeknownst to the homeowner, critical bill payments fall into arrears.

Sometimes this can happen when mortgage loans are routinely transferred from company to company and the escrow account is overlooked. Or the mortgage company may pay the wrong amount of tax or insurance, or mail the payment to the wrong place.

"Although the majority of lenders are acting fairly, many companies are buying and selling the loans without communicating properly," said Tim Rauch, the tax collector for Hillsborough County, N.J.

Property taxes are often paid late—sometimes up to one year after the original due date. In several New Jersey counties, local taxing authorities estimate that as many as 25 percent of the tax bills were not received on time. Delayed disbursements from escrow accounts were thought to be the major cause.

"If a homeowner with an escrow account finds that the bills were not paid on time by the mortgage company, they shouldn't panic or rush out to pay the bills themselves," said Bonnie Cunic Caldwell, a staff member on the U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Housing and Community Development. "The mortgage company is the one obligated to pay."

But there may be three different companies involved with a single mortgage, and all may deny responsibility for the account. "After a while, it gets frustrating and, unfortunately, it

CPAs give mixed ratings

Illinois business conditions are good, at least according to Chicago-area CPAs, but other regions of the state may not be as optimistic. And national economic forces—including recent events on Wall Street—create an extremely cautious outlook for 1988, according to the Illinois CPA poll of economic trends.

The first Illinois CPA Poll year-end economic forecast sampled 453 members of the Illinois CPA Society. The CPAs were polled in two separate surveys—one conducted before the stock market crash and one conducted shortly after the crash.

About 27 percent of CPAs responding to the post-crash poll describe conditions in Illinois as "good," while less than 10 percent say business conditions in the state are "bad."

"Nearly three-fourths of CPAs responding to the poll forecast the same or better conditions in 1988. Our members predict particularly strong growth in the service sector, high technology and health care," says Anthony Mandolini, president of the Illinois CPA Society.

CPAs ratings of Illinois business conditions show wide variation regionally with Chicago-area respondents displaying the most optimism: Current conditions are rated "good" by 30.3 percent and "bad" by only 5.6 percent of CPAs in Chicagoland, where approximately 75 percent of Illinois CPA Society members work and live.

The picture is not as rosy in other regions of the state. In northwestern Illinois, 13.1 percent of respondents rate business conditions in Illinois as "good" and 20.6 say conditions are "bad." Central Illinois rates 14.4 percent "good" and 22 percent "bad"; eastern Illinois rates 7.1 percent "good" and 21.4 percent "bad"; and southern Illinois rates 11.6 percent "good" and 35.8 percent "bad." A majority of respondents in all regions rated business conditions "normal."

Attitudes about Illinois business conditions six months from now show that CPAs are slightly more pessimistic since the Oct. 19 stock market crash. However, they do not see the crash as the major factor affecting the economy.

"The market decline will affect the state's economy—but it's not the factor that will determine how Illinois performs in 1988," Mandolini says. Only about 3.8 percent of respondents say the stock market is the greatest factor affecting Illinois economy in 1988, and 5.8 percent say it's the greatest factor affecting the national economy.

Rather, CPA Poll respondents see the federal budget deficit, interest rates and the trade deficit as having the greatest impact on the national economy.

Nearly 50 percent of the CPAs polled (only 36.4 percent before the crash) believe the federal deficit will slow growth in GNP in 1988. Largely as a response to the stock market plunge, the federal government will act to reduce the deficit, according to 63 percent of poll respondents. They say this will more likely be accomplished through tax increases (73 percent) than reduced spending (65.6 percent).

CPAs will be watching interest rates, but opinion over their movement remains uncertain: 50.9 percent forecast higher interest rates in 1988, down from 87.1 percent in the pre-crash poll. A possible reason for the dramatic

State retail sales increase show

Illinois retail sales jumped 7.08 percent in November over the same month a year ago.

All three geographic regions reported gains in November. Central/southern Illinois reported the highest gain of 14.91 percent, followed by increases in Metropolitan Chicago of 6.76 percent and in northern Illinois of 0.72 percent.

David F. Vite, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Assn., announced the November results of the IRMA/Touche Ross Retail Sales Comparison Report. The 62 firms surveyed, represented by 235 stores statewide, have totaled over $1.89 billion Illinois sales volume for the retailing fiscal year beginning Feb. 1, 1987.

"The November results are encouraging," Vite said. "While industry analysts have blamed some lagging sales nationally on the stock market crash and increasing prices of imported clothing, we've found the sales following expected trends for a strong holiday selling season."

Department stores fared the best in November, reporting an overall increase of 7.77 percent, with central/southern Illinois jumping 19.30 percent, Metropolitan Chicago up 7.22 percent, and Northern Illinois increasing 0.07 percent.

Shoe, variety, and other stores were up 6.78 percent statewide, with increases of 12.27 percent in metropolitan Chicago.

Men's and women's specialty shops were down 3.08 percent overall, though central/southern Illinois reported a 2.37 increase for the category. Metropolitan Chicago decreased 3.51 percent and northern Illinois was down 3.49 percent.

Participation in the monthly Retail Sales Comparison Report is free of charge and open to all Illinois merchants.

CPAs

opinion shift: the government's plan to keep interest rates low, thereby avoiding a post-crash economic slump.

"If this policy of low rates can be sustained, it should mean good news for business expansion in Illinois," Mandolini says.

According to the post-crash CPA poll, business sectors that will see the strongest growth are services (75 percent project an increase in sales), health care (73.9 percent) and high technology (65.9 percent). Although CPAs forecast some trouble for the service sector since the crash—the number of CPAs forecasting sales increases dropped 12.5 percent after the crash—the greatest erosion seems to be in retail: from 62.4 percent before the crash to 40.6 percent after the crash.

Despite the uncertainty over interest rates, CPAs express optimism about the availability of funds, with about 76 percent of respondents in both polls saying loans will be readily available in 1988.

CPAs responding to the two polls were equally consistent, if not so optimistic, in forecasting other economic indicators. A majority of CPAs in both post- and pre-crash polls predicted a weakening in several key indicators. In the second poll for example:

—73 percent say accounts receivable will increase;

—68 percent say capital improvements will not be stronger in 1988;

—56.7 percent say liquidity and borrowing will become a more acute problem;

—58.7 percent say new business starts will be down (only 47.1 percent on pre-crash poll); and

—51.9 percent say manufacturing inventories will increase, and 53.3 percent say seasonally adjusted retail inventories will increase.

Assessing other elements of Illinois' business environment, CPA Poll respondents forecast that:

—The number of bank failures statewide will stay the same (66.8 percent agree).

—National unemployment will average 6.4 percent for 1988 while Illinois unemployment will reach 7.2 percent.

—National inflation will average 4.1 percent—lower than the current 4.8 percent annual rate.

—Salary increases will outpace inflation in the professional workforce (52.1 percent agree), but not in the unskilled workforce (according to 65.8 percent).

The CPA Poll provides an informed perspective on economic conditions by drawing on the experience of the professionals who act as consultants to business on financial, operational and managerial plans and problems.

The current poll sampled 453 of the 21,000 CPAs who are members of the Illinois CPA Society. The first poll was taken during 10 days beginning the first week in October. The second poll was taken during the 10 days beginning Nov. 14. A sample of this size drawn from the population of society members as described above will generally reflect that population at a 95 percent confidence level plus or minus 4.6 percent.

Appoints agent

Inland Commercial Property Sales, Inc. of Oak Brook has been appointed the exclusive listing agent for between 45 and 350 residential building sites in Zion. The building sites are being offered unimproved or fully improved and the lots have been platted and approved by the Village of Zion. The location adjoins two successful subdivisions and is close to both Winthrop and Waukegan Harbors.

Escrow accounts

is the homeowner's name that is listed as delinquent in the paper," said Rauch.

While the mortgage company must pay all the delinquency charges and late fees, holding onto the money can sometimes increase its profits.

"Some mortgage companies know they can sit on the payment and earn money by investing it at an interest rate of eight or 10 percent," said Leonard Schapiro, a former employee with the Better Business Bureau in Encino, Calif., who is now studying real estate law.

But mortgage companies say the problems are not entirely their fault. They say tax bills often arrive at their offices late, many times without a tax identification number or another identifying feature.

Furthermore, in some states such as New Jersey and Texas, the tax payment system itself is convoluted. For example, in New Jersey, taxes are billed quarterly in uneven payments. And in Texas, each taxing authority—from water and sewers to libraries—is responsible for calculating and billing its taxes separately, making for as many as eight tax bills.

Another problem occurs when an escrow account runs short of money because of a tax or insurance-rate increase.

Mortgage companies evaluate most escrow account at least once a year, usually after the first major tax disbursement, to be sure that the homeowner is putting enough into it to cover expenses. But if rates are raised after the evaluation, it can cause deficiency of funds.

"Almost every homeowner ends with a shortage at one time or another because of rapidly appreciating property values and recent tax hikes," said Ted Coe, a vice president at Talman Home Federal Savings and Loan in Chicago.

When the mortgage company underestimates the payments, it covers the difference to protect its investment. But the homeowner is required to pay either a lump sum, or more money each month during the next year, as a reimbursement.

For questions about your escrow account, call the mortgage company. Most have toll-free customer service numbers set up for such purposes. Alternatively, servicers advise writing directly to their business addresses with questions or complaints rather than to their lock-boxes, where letters frequently get lost among the payments.

Also, try calling the Mortgage Bankers Assn. in Washington, D.C., at (202) 861-6500.

Learn to ski free

Mark calendars for Friday, Jan. 8, when participating ski areas across country host 'National Learn to Ski Day.' Lessons, lift tickets and equipment packages will be provided free. 'Let's Go Skiing, America!' program continues at reduced prices through Feb. 7. For local ski hills and shops which are participating, see related article on this page.

Free 'learn to ski' day Jan. 8

This January, anyone who has never tried skiing will get the chance of a lifetime as several ski shops and ski areas in the Midwest team up for the second annual "Let's Go Skiing, America!" month.

Participating area shops are Herman's Sporting Goods, Buffalo Grove, (312)259-1522; The Outdoorsman, Lake Forest, (312)234-9180; Munson Marine Ski Shops, Round Lake, (815)385-2720; Brown's Sporting Goods, Vernon Hills; Herman's Sporting Goods, Vernon Hills, (312)680-1360; Hansen's Pool and Ski, Waukegan, (312)244-4505; Munson Marine Ski Shops, Zion, (312)395-3550; Alpine Valley Resort, Alpine; and Wilmot Mountain, Alpine.

The program, which drew more than 53,000 new skiers nationwide last year, offers a free "National Learn-to-Ski Day" on Friday, Jan. 8 at participating alpine and crosscountry ski areas. First time skiers will receive a free ski lesson, rental equipment and access to beginner ski slopes or trails. New skiers should call the area of their choice ahead of time and reserve a spot in the free beginners' classes, since lesson groups are expected to fill quickly and some restrictions may apply.

Following the free day and continuing through Feb. 7, the same instructional package is available to first-time skiers at a cost of no more than $15 midweek and $25 on weekends for alpine skiing and no more than $10 midweek and $20 on weekends for cross-country skiing. Coupons, which are available at local participating ski shops, must be brought to a participating ski area for the specially priced "Let's Go Skiing, America!" package.

Local ski shops will also offer free new skier information kits which include helpful tips on safety and proper clothing to make beginners' first day on the slopes more enjoyable. Consumers are encouraged to call the toll-free locator service, 1-800-88-TO-SKI for the name of participating local ski shops. These shops will provide further information on the program and a list of participating ski areas nearby.

Rosebud to open Andres' season with 'Mary, Mary'

The opening show for the Winter 1988 dinner-theatre season at Andre's Steakhouse in Richmond will be "Mary, Mary." This delightful comedy is by Jean Kerr, author of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

What happens when a recently divorced couple gets together to discuss a tax audit? Fireworks and sparks of rekindled love flourish as the audience will laugh at the zippy one-line barbs.

This is the premiere production of Rosebud Productions, directed by Tom Hausman of Antioch. Hausman will be assisted by Deane Jones of Round Lake Beach as stage manager and George Cina of McHenry as light and sound designer.

Cast members include Dena Fabry of Gurnee as Mary; Harry Bartlett of Woodstock as Bob; Colleen Jordan of Woodstock as Tiffany; Lou Jones of Round Lake Beach as Dirk; and Larry Bersie of Antioch as Oscar.

Play dates are Jan. 8-10, 15-17, 22-24, and 29-30. Reservations are necessary. Call (815)678-2671 for an evening of fine cuisine and comedy.

Andres is located one mile north of Rte. 173 on Rte. 12.

Adler expands Suzuki agenda

Beginning on Jan. 25, the Suzuki Talent Education Program at the David Adler Cultural Center will be adding Suzuki flute, cello and viola to its violin and piano offerings.

According to Doug Miller, the center's music director, "The growth in our Suzuki program has generated a great deal of excitement at the cultural center. The hiring of additional staff has brought in a number of new ideas and visions for the program."

The new staff includes Jane Hager, Nancy Kocal and Michelle Lindgren. Hager, a music instructor with 24 years teaching experience, will be teaching Suzuki flute.

Kocal will return to the Adler Center to teach Suzuki cello.

Lindgren, who has her degree in music education, will join the Suzuki piano staff. Violin will be taught by Ardis Fisher, who joined the Adler staff in August of this year after finishing her master's degree in Suzuki pedagogy at the University of Colorado.

Suzuki teaching is based on a philosophy of respect for the child. Dr. Suzuki has said, "Talent is not inherited, and the potential of each child is unlimited." The Suzuki approach to learning involves: parental participation, exposing the child to music via recordings and creating an enjoyable learning environment.

For more information on the Suzuki Talent Education Program at the David Adler Cultural Center call (312)367-0707.

Young anglers looking forward to Sport Show

Good fishermen are made, not born, and a number of special features at the Chicagoland Sport Fishing, Travel and Outdoors Show are designed to acquaint youngsters with the right fishing habits.

The show, opening Jan. 29 for 10 days at the O'Hare Expo Center in Rosemont, will offer children's workshops, contests and hands-on fishing opportunities.

"Most important, of course, is for kids to have fun," said show coordinator Sandy Portincaso. "Once they're enjoying themselves, you can start to teach them about casting and retrieving, different techniques and more complicated matters. But fun comes first."

With that thought in mind, hour-long "Fishing is Fun" workshops will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 30 and Saturday, Feb. 6. The workshops, sponsored by Sears and Zebco, will focus on fishing basics such as water safety, baiting hooks, tying knots, and choosing the correct tackle. Instructors include experts drawn from the show's seminar series, tackle representatives, and members of the Illinois State Police Water Safety Patrol Division.

Each child participating will receive free gifts and a Course Completion Certificate, and each session will conclude with a drawing for special prizes (winners must be present at the time of the drawing). Grownups are welcome to attend, but must be accompanied by a child.

More advanced anglers will want to participate in the Ninth Annual Bon-A-Don Youth Casting Contest, to be held Saturday, Feb. 6. Among the prizes are tackle boxes, lures, rods, reels, hats and other equipment, with plaques awarded to the top three winners in each of two divisions. The junior division, for children aged six to nine, will compete at 1 p.m. The senior division, for 10- through 13-year-olds, will compete at 3:30 p.m. Registration for all contestants will begin at noon in the WGN-Radio Casting Pond area.

A perennial favorite—with the young and not-so-young alike—is the Sportmart Trout Pond. The 45-foot pond in stocked with hundreds of rainbow trout, many of them "tagged" for prizes. An angler who catches a tagged fish can win lures, line, tackle boxes, rods, reels and other equipment—or one of 100 $25 Sportmart gift certificates. Rods are provided, and fish will be packed for the trip home. The cost to fish is 75 cents.

Show hours are 1:30 to 10 p.m. on weekdays, 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Saturdays, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Admission is $5.50 for adults, $2 for children six to 12, and free for children five and under. The O'Hare Expo Center is located on River Road in Rosemont across the street from the Hyatt Regency O'Hare.

Shooting fish in a barrel

If adults did this, game wardens would whip out the cuffs. For children visiting Chicagoland Sport Fishing, Travel and Outdoors Show, it's just the thing to give them the feel of fishing. Show will open for 10 days beginning Friday, Jan. 29, at O'Hare Expo Center in Rosemont. Admission is $5.50 for adults, $2 for children between six and 12, and free for children five and under.

Rock Tracks

Considering the multitudes of directions modern popular music is taking, it's refreshing to find a band which writes and plays good old-time rock and roll. The group I'm referring to is The Crosswind Band, and they are Richard Dickerson (lead vocalist), Tony Tallarico (keyboards/background vocals), John Roggio (guitar/vocals), Bruce Robinson (bass/vocals), Lew Rosenthal (sax/vocals) and Buddy Brail (drums).

Richard Dickerson is the founder of the band and principal songwriter along with keyboardist Tony Tallarico. Tony had been playing the New York circuit with a variety of working bands before joining Crosswind in 1983. Saxophonist Lew Rosenthal is no stranger to music either, having 18 years of road work under his belt with such acts as The Monkees, The Regents and The Coasters, as well as appearing on the Steven Stills, Neil Young album Follow Up II.

After seven years of gigs around the east coast, the band's current line-up is the strongest Dickerson has known and has taken the first step toward real success — a self-titled debut album on SOS Records. Through their manager Simon Nathan, a demo of the group reached the hands of producer/engineer Peter Denezberg and the president of SOS Records, Joe Ferry. Within one month, Crosswind was recording their first record.

As Dickerson puts it, "Our tunes are basically commercial rock 'n' roll...good strong grooves, hooks and melodies are what we strive for. Tony and I have been writing for years, and our newest members, John and Bruce, are always coming up with new tunes. We all have different backgrounds and personal influences, and somewhere, somehow, it all meets in the middle and comes out a Crosswind song."

And a good one at that.

'Reflections' theme of black artist show

In celebration of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday, the College of Lake County will present "Reflections: The Dream, the Reality," an exhibit featuring Chicago area black artists, beginning Friday, Jan. 15. The exhibit will be held in the Community Gallery of Art at the Grayslake campus.

An opening reception will be held at 7 p.m. on Jan. 15 in the gallery, with music by the Kevin Gainer Trio, a jazz group. The reception and exhibit are free and open to the public.

Conceived by the college's Black Student Union, the exhibit, part of an ongoing spring semester program to celebrate Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday, was created in an attempt to capture and display the sensibilities, aspirations and stylistic diversity of contemporary black visual artists.

Featured artists include Robert Dilworth, Mary Reed Daniel, Barlow, Willie L. Carter, Geraldine McCullough, and Calvin Jones. All 20 exhibiting artists are represented by the Isobel Neal Gallery of Chicago, which deals exclusively in African American visual artists.

The gallery, a project of the CLC Foundation, is open from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Fridays. For weekend hours, call (312) 223-6601, ext. 618.

Holmes dancers to replace Chicago City Ballet

The performing arts series at the Woodstock Opera House is pleased to announce the replacement of the Chicago City Ballet with the Joseph Holmes Dance Theatre of Chicago, on Saturday, Jan. 30 at 2 and 8 p.m.

The Chicago City Ballet has recently faded out their operation and they are not going ahead with their contracts as of November, 1987.

Due to this change, patrons are offered three choices: exchange their Chicago City Ballet tickets for Joseph Holmes tickets and save approximately $3 per ticket; give a full refund for tickets purchased for Chicago City Ballet; or offer credit toward any other performing arts series events.

Patrons are urged to contact the box office for ticket information, exchanges or refunds at (815) 338-5300.

The Joseph Holmes Dance Theatre, twice nominated for the NACA Performing Artist of the Year, has had audiences on their feet all over the country. With roots on Chicago's south side, the company has become a part of the cultural mainstream.

Joining Wingard will be his son, Tobin, an active professional flutist in Wisconsin, percussionist Rich Thompson, and bassist Harrison Bankhead.

One of the works included on the program is Claude Bolling's "Suite for Flute and Jazz Piano." Other works featured will include "Amazing Grace."

This is the first of several recitals being offered to the public by the Waukegan Park Dist.'s Jack Benny Center for the Arts.

Others include faculty and guest artists recitals given by Marilyn Shonfeld, violin, Carol Honigberg, piano, Julie Riggs, piano, Maya Brodetsky, piano, the Kreisler String Quartet, the Waukegan Symphony Winds, and many more.

Wingard received his degree from the University of Illinois with a major in piano. He has taught piano and theory at North Texas State College and at Midwestern University in Texas.

He is an active piano soloist and chamber music performer. He has many compositions which have been performed in the midwest and is very active as a composer.

He is chairman of the music department and band director at Lake Forest Country Day School.

Tickets for the Jan. 9 performance are $5 for adults, and only $3 for students, senior citizens and military personnel. For reservations or further information call (312) 244-1660.

Colorization: Wave of the 'past'

✓ Bill Dotson

Last week I watched one of the 37 showings of "It's A Wonderful Life" that ran during the holiday season, and I found my attention being drawn to Jimmy Stewart's eyes and lips. No, it's not because I'm a pervert like my cousin Freddy who hangs around Lakehurst wearing only a trenchcoat. It's because Stewart's lips and eyes, like those of everyone in the film, were grey!

Now in a black and white film, that would be no big deal, but "It's A Wonderful Life" is one of many black and white classics to fall victim to the insidious process of colorization. Colorization has been a controversial issue for a long time, so the time has come to answer the burning question that is no doubt keeping you awake nights: "What do Matthew and Bill think of it?"

Colorization, of course, is "Computer-enhanced color." In other words, it's "fake color"—and that's exactly what it looks like. It's also very distracting. Instead of watching the movie, I found myself criticizing obvious bugs in the system, like the fact that lips could not be colorized. So I wound up watching everyone's mouth. I used to have the same problem with "Clutch Cargo" (and his "pals", Spinner and Paddlefoot).

One argument for colorization is that it "brings out" the old classics for kids and people who might otherwise never see them, because in this modern age, some people just won't watch black and white. But if you don't want to see those classics the way their creators meant them to be seen, why watch them at all?

One of the worst offenders is Ted Turner, who reportedly wanted to colorize the beginning and end of "The Wizard of Oz". Fortunately, one of his people must have told him, "Ted, baby, that's a dumb idea," because as far as I know, he hasn't yet. (Of course, the poor guy who told Ted that is probably flipping burgers at a truck stop now. Ted's got a temper.)

Some films are just more powerful in black and white. Can you imagine "Citizen Kane" for example, in color? It would destroy one of the most important aspects of the film—the creative use of shadows to set the mood or the tone of the scene.

If color is the important factor to you, there's always the tv remake of "It's A Wonderful Life" called "It Happened One Christmas" with Marlo Thomas. It's not in the same league, but a remake is still better than vandalizing the original.

Note: "Lakeland Cinema" welcomes opposing viewpoints. And no, I don't really have a cousin Freddy.

✓ Matthew Poliakon

I have this friend and from time to time we have lunch together at Joe's Grill. When we do, the subject of our discussion often turns to such popular areas in the news as politics and the movies. True, it's not often easy to see where the one picks up and the other leaves off, but just last week, my friend and I had a very interesting discussion regarding the computerized process called "colorization" and its use to add color to various black and white old films. My friend had some very strong feelings about this issue and so began our conversation.

My friend began, "I just don't see why some people are in an uproar about this colorization stuff. I mean, I've had a black and white tv all my life and I think it would be great to see some of my favorite movies in color."

I nodded to my friend as I swallowed another gulp of Joe's famous coffee, and was about to say something when my friend continued, "I was watching a pretty neat film called 'Star Wars' or something, just the other month. Hey! You know, you should try and see this movie if you get a chance. I mean it's exciting stuff! I wonder why it never became famous? Anyway, I got to thinking in the middle of the film, you know, I bet you that if someone would make a colorized version of this, it would really be a great movie. I mean the action scenes were pretty good, but it just seemed to be missing something."

I was about to choke on another sip of Joe's coffee but my friend continued, "Then there is this really old weird movie starring this kid named Judy Garland. I think it's called 'The Wizard Of Oz' or something. Ever hear of it? Anyway, I liked it a lot, but it just kinda slows down in the second part when Judy and this dog land in this really weird place. I think that if they ever colorize this old movie, that part would really be neat to see. I mean, near the end they go to this place Emerald City. Emerald City? I think it looked more like Greyville in this movie. I think colorization would help a lot."

By now I was quietly sitting drumming my fingers on the formica of Joe's countertop and looking off into space. I was about to tell my friend something when he continued with his condemnation of the black and white world of cinema, "Now am I right or what? You know I am. Boy, if this colorization thing really takes off someday, who knows, maybe there will be a color version of 'Gone With The Wind'. Wouldn't that be something to see! Man, when they run that scene where Atlanta burns, it would be exciting."

I let my friend finish our discussion on colorization and what it was going to mean to us all. I left Joe's Grill wondering if my friend had seen "It's A Wonderful Life" yet. I hoped not.

January offers of outdoor trips

Now that this year's young man in diapers has put 1987's venerable old man to rest, our wish to all outdoor enthusiasts is "Have a great '88" and enjoy the 366 days of opportunity it presents.

There are many ways this can be done and important among them is to share your outdoor knowledge, love and interest with others who may be less informed by reasons of age, experience or opportunity. We've all heard it, "My kid don't like to fish." Did anyone take the time to teach? Sharing is the real proof of caring.

Beside being the first full month of winter, January presents us with several outdoor shows that offer vicarious trips to locations in every direction. Most travel begins in our heads long before taken.

Canada, our neighbor to the north, is a favorite destination among outdoor persons and general vacationers. Something for everyone means a lot to a family with mixed interests. For the fifth year, the All Canada Fishing, Hunting and Vacation Show will be held Thursday through Sunday, Jan. 14 to 17. This year, once again, it will be at the new Pheasant Run Resort Mega Center in St. Charles, on North Avenue, Rte. 64.

In addition to over 100 displays, an increased travel section is scheduled to accommodate multiple interests for Canadian visits. Show hours are 5 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday; 2:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday; 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Adult admission is $5, with a $3 ticket for seniors 62 and over and children under 12.

Grand prize for registered attendees is a houseboat trip on Lake of the Woods, Ontario. Show guests may also register for some 20 additional vacations for two and prizes, which will be awarded at the end of the show circuit.

A stay at the Temple Bay Lodge, one of our favorites, is among them. Ongoing seminars, featuring fishing, hunting and travel are included. There is no parking problem here and it's free. The Pheasant Run Resort, its rooms, restaurants and shops make a pleasant agenda.

Immediately following comes the new Land of Illini Outdoor Show, at the same Pheasant Run location. This is the first of its kind here and directed toward fisherman, camper, boater and hunter, sports generally shared by all outdoor persons. Show begins Thursday, Jan. 21 at 3 p.m. and runs through Sunday, Jan. 24 closing at 5 p.m. It closes at 10 p.m. other days.

History is a big factor in economic forecasting

Because the stock market is so closely related to the economy, investors often miss major market moves by incorrectly evaluating short-term conditions or fearing long-term financial collapse. Of course, there's no way to predict the future, but a careful study of the past is a good guide for what to expect under a variety of changing economic conditions.

In the last half century, probably more has happened to affect us economically than happened since the founding of this nation. There has been a depression and at least three major recessions. There has been a world war, Korea and Vietnam. The atomic age was launched, and a man was put on the moon. One president was assassinated and another resigned in disgrace.

Yet with all these potentially disastrous events, the stock market not only survived, but continued to advance.

In the past 50 years, the stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, closed lower than the previous year only 18 times. That means it was up almost two years for every year it was down. In 1974, the Dow closed down 27.6 percent from the previous year, the steepest market drop in 40 years. In 1975, however, the market not only recovered that loss, it surged ahead, closing up 38.3 percent.

Why has the stock market continued to advance? In a recent address to investment brokers, David Heald, vice president of Putnam Financial Services, suggested that the stock market reflects America.

For example, in 1939, at the New York World's Fair, the then-president of General Motors predicted that by 1965, "we will have 32 million cars on our American highways." He wasn't half right. By 1965, there were more than 75 million cars. The president of American Airlines envisioned flights from New York to Los Angeles in just 13 hours, with only four stops. But in 1957, with the introduction of jet engines into commercial aviation, it took less than six hours with no stops. Time and again, American ingenuity has been underestimated.

Heald recalled that just 15 years ago, Business Week magazine published a report by a data processing survey group that stated without question no business would ever use automated data processing.

The stock market, on the other hand, is a true reflection of the economy and its progress. As the country grows, demand for goods and services, the gross national product, also grows. In citing reasons to be optimistic about the future, Heald pointed out just a few of the things that happen every day in the U.S.

Every day 10,000

babies are born, each representing a lifetime demand of 750 tons of paper. Each day, 1,700 new businesses are formed, and 100 million checks are written. Each day 800 million telephone calls are made, creating a daily long-distance telephone bill of $125 million.

Each day, $3.50 is spent for every man, woman and child in the country for personal health care. That adds up to $800 million every single day. Each day we throw away 20,000 television sets, smash up 50,000 vehicles and buy 2.75 million pairs of women's shoes. But every day, 200 new American millionaires are created.

So if daily economic conditions seem confusing or depressing, look to the past for assurance of survival and to the future for the style of doing so.

Tax-exempt bond program will ease college costs

A unique bond program allowing parents an opportunity to plan for their children's college education will be offered in Illinois around Jan. 11.

Beginning approximately on that date, about $90 million in bonds will be sold, with individual bonds ranging in price from $950 to $3,500 each, depending on the maturity and market rates at the time of the sale. Interest income on the bonds will be exempt from federal and state income taxes.

The bonds will be sold as zero coupon bonds with interest compounded semi-annually and paid upon maturity.

Each bond is designed for the individual family. The cost and term of the bonds should be chosen based on the current age of the child. The maturity date of the bond will be Aug. 1, to assist immediately with college expenses for that year of college.

While the money paid at maturity can be used for any purpose, the state will offer a bonus upon maturity if the bond is applied directly toward higher education costs in Illinois. The bonus paid for each bond will range from $100 to $400 depending on the length of maturity of the bond.

In addition to other incentives, up to $25,000 in proceeds from the bonds will not be considered as an asset in financial aid formulas determining student eligibility for state student financial assistance.

Bonds will be offered through many banks and brokerage houses with offices in Illinois. The managing underwriter for the bond sale will be the First National Bank of Chicago.

"A program such as this bears a number of important benefits for parents and for the state, because it encourages enrollment in Illinois colleges and universities and provides a play to pay for that education," said Governor James Thompson, who signed the bond act on Sept. 22. "If one thing is clear about the future, it is the fact that the costs of college education will continue to rise, and that parents today must be prepared to face that reality."

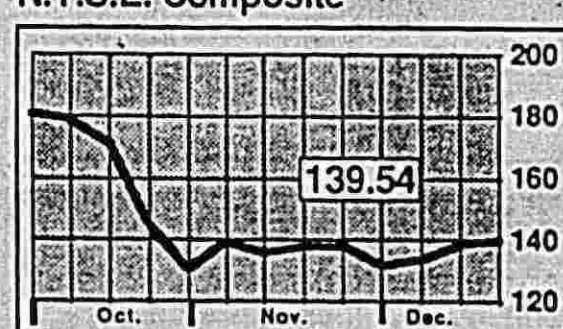

"This program provides an innovative means to meet the financial challenges of the future," he added.

No break on interest

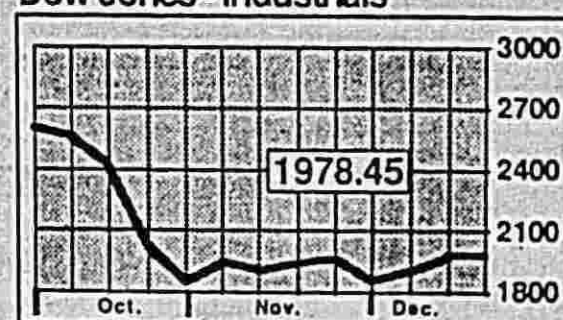

The big news for most individual taxpayers is that the deduction for consumer interest is being phased out. Before 1987, all interest paid on credit cards, charge accounts, autos and student and personal loans was fully deductible. For 1987, 65 percent of consumer interest will be deductible. That amount drops to 40 percent in 1988, 20 percent in 1989, 10 percent in 1990; and beginning in 1991, no deduction for consumer interest will be allowed.

Home buyers puzzle over what is best in new mortgages

The deductibility of interest payments for home loan mortgages is one of the last remaining consumer tax shelters under current law, but home buyers are frequently confused about different types of mortgages and what's best.

"What's best depends to a large degree on how long you plan to be in the home," suggest Robert G. Walters, senior vice president of Baird & Warner and general manager of its residential sales division. The two basic types of home loans are the conventional fixed-rate and the adjustable-rate mortgage, commonly known as ARM, which was introduced several years ago by the savings and loan industry.

The greatest attraction of the more traditional fixed-rate variety is its certainty. The same check is written every month for the duration of the loan, unless it is decided to amortize it more quickly in future years. Its popularity was demonstrated in recent months when interest rates hovered around 10 percent or lower, and most buyers opted for fixed rates.

ARMs, which now represent about 35 percent of total loans, often grab buyers because of their lower initial rates; there is often a spread of one or two percentage points between an ARM and a fixed rate. However, interest rates and monthly payments can rise (or fall) with market rates during the life of the ARM and, even though there are limits (cap rate) at how much interest rates can rise in any one year or during the life of the loan, that possibility does turn off some buyers.

Even though interest rates recently jumped by nearly two percentage points, most experts are projecting steady and possibly even falling rates for the foreseeable future. This suggests that an ARM might still be advisable, especially if one can still get a one or two percentage point lower initial rate, Walters says. (On July 6, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported fixed-rate mortgages averaged 10.85 percent against 8.74 percent for ARMs in early June.)

"Or if you think you might be selling the house after a few years because of career moves, for example, an ARM can be a smart move if you can get the right spread initially," he said.

Bid farewell

Among deductions curtailed by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 are the double income deduction for married couples, deductions for state and local sales taxes, and credit for contributions to candidates for public office. Medical costs are deductible only if they exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income, and charitable contributions must be itemized for deduction.

Working parents can get day care credit

Parents who pay others to care for their children who are under the age of 15 may be eligible for a federal income tax credit.

The child and dependent care credit provides a tax break for persons who pay someone to look after their children while they work.

The maximum credit is 30 percent of qualifying work-related expenses if the taxpayer's adjusted gross income is $10,000 or less. If adjusted gross income is over $10,000, the credit percentage is reduced until it reaches 20 percent for incomes over $28,000.

The maximum amount that may be used to figure the credit can be no more than $2,400 for one qualifying child, and no more than $4,800 for two qualifying children.

For divorced and separated parents, the parent who had custody for a longer time during the calendar year can claim the credit. The child does not have to be a dependent; however, the child must have been under the age of 15 or unable to care for him or herself, been in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, and received more than half of his or her support from one or both parents.

Also, individuals living apart from their spouse but not legally separated may claim the credit on a separate return only if their child lived with them for more than half of the year and they paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home for the year. The spouse must have lived outside that home for the last six months of the year.

Persons who want to know more about the child care credit may call the IRS and request Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit," at (800) 424-3676.

Children and taxes are topic of program

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 created some special changes in the tax laws that could cause parents some confusion and concern. The Lake County Cooperative Extension Service will host two presentations at 1 and 7 p.m. on Jan. 27 to help clarify these changes.

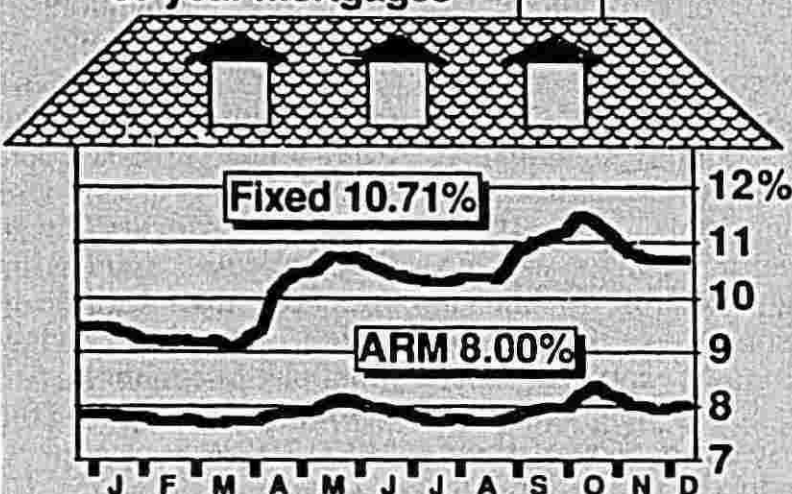

Some of the changes include: new Social Security requirements for children; new rulings on taxing of child's income; parental tax that must be paid by children at the parents' tax investments in the child's name; and a child no longer being able to claim himself on his or her tax return if they are eligible to be claimed on someone else's return.

An Internal Revenue Service officer will conduct the free presentations at the Extension Service office, Rte. 45 in Grayslake (near the fairgrounds). To pre-register, or for more information, call (312) 223-8627.

New tax laws likely to increase income figure

Although tax rates have been lowered under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, more of one's income is likely to be subject to tax, cautions

the Illinois CPA Society. Five key areas are affected: dividends, unemployment compensation, long-term capital gains, income shifting and scholarships and fellowships.

written a special provision in the law for this transitional year. Although taxpayers will include net capital gains from their investments in with their regular income, the tax on long-term capital gains, for 1987 only, will be capped at 28 percent.

could exclude from income all scholarship money received for tuition, room and board, travel, books, research and equipment. Under TRA '86, degree candidates may exclude only course-related expenses such as tuition, books, supplies and equipment.

Change in laws reduce home use, meal deduction

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 made many changes in business income tax, most of them effective for the tax year 1987. R.S. Wintrobe, Jr., director of the Internal Revenue Service for northern Illinois, advises business persons to be aware of the changes before they prepare to file a 1987 income tax return.

Wintrobe highlighted four of the most significant changes for business. First is the introduction of the Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS), a new system of depreciation that will eventually affect most depreciable property used in business. Under MACRS, the useful life of an asset is longer than the life under prior law.

Businessmen may elect MACRS for certain assets, and are permitted to make a property-by-property election to apply it to property placed in service after July 31, 1986 and before Jan. 1, 1987. Property under construction as of March 1, 1986 will be depreciated under prior law.

Another change in the law is a limit on the amount deductible for business use of a home. Under the old law, the portion of the home used regularly and exclusively as either a principal place of business or as a place to meet customers was deductible from the gross income of the business. This deduction included a pro-rate portion of real estate tax, interest, depreciation, repairs and utilities.

The new law limits the current year's deductions for depreciation, repairs and utilities, deductible to the extent of income from the business. The net effect of this change in law will limit the office in the home expenses and not allow a business net loss due to these expenses.

The Tax Reform Act also stipulates that a loss or credits from a passive activity (any activity in which business or trade is conducted without material participation) generally will be deductible only to the extent of the income from the activity. Deduction of expenses and credits from a passive activity are restricted, and therefore a net loss cannot be claimed. Excess expenses and credits can be carried forward to offset income from the activity in future years.

Also limited under the Tax Reform Act is business meal expense deduction. Prior law allowed a full deduction if the meal was part of a business meeting or discussion, or if a business person was traveling away from home overnight.

Now meal expense deduction is limited to 80 percent of the cost incurred. The exception to this rule is when an employee incurs the meal expense and is required to report the expense to their employer for reimbursement. Generally, this reporting will transfer the expense deduction from employee to employer, and the employee now has no expense to claim, and the reimbursement is not income. (The employer is limited to claiming only 80 percent of the reimbursement.)

Dividend Exclusion: Under prior tax law, an individual could exclude from income the first $100 in qualifying dividends ($200 on a joint return). With this exclusion repealed, all dividends received on stock holdings after Dec. 31, 1986 are fully taxed.

Unemployment Compensation: Before the Tax Reform of 1986 (TRA '86), unemployed workers received a partial exclusion for unemployment compensation. Payments received in 1987 are taxed just as wages are. Although unemployment compensation will be fully taxable, workers' compensation benefits remain tax-free.

Long-term capital gains: In the past, investors were allowed to exclude from income 60 percent of their profits from sales of assets held for more than six months—including real estate and stock. The new law, however, eliminates this special treatment. Beginning in 1988, long-term capital gains will be taxed at the same rates as ordinary income. To soften the blow to investors, Congress has Income shifting: TRA '86 abolished the tax benefits of Clifford Trusts, a tool many parents have used to shift income to their children.

The new law actually contains two sets of guidelines—one for children under age 14 and one for children 14 and older. For those under 14, the first $1,000 of unearned income will be taxed at the child's lower rates. Children who are eligible to be claimed as dependents on their parents' returns will no longer be able to take a personal exemption on their own returns. The law does allow children to use up to $500 of their standard deduction to shelter unearned income and permits another $500 to be taxed at the child's rate. Any earnings above $1,000 are taxed at the parent's highest tax rate.

For children age 14 and older, all income, earned and unearned, is taxed at the child's rate.

Scholarships: Before tax reform, a student working toward a degree

Previously, degree candidates who were required to teach courses or conduct research as part of their degree requirements were allowed to exclude that income as well. Now, as a result of TRA '86, that income will be subject to tax.

The new provisions in the tax law apply to scholarships and fellowships granted on or after Aug. 17, 1986. Non-degree candidates who previously were allowed a limited exclusion receive no exclusion under tax reform. They must pay taxes on the full amount granted after Aug. 16, 1986.

As was the case under the old law, wages, salary, tips, interest, alimony received, business profits, rents and royalties are all included as income.

The bottom line is that the income figure reported on the return will probably be considerably higher than last year—even if you did not get a raise.

Prepaid legal services: An ounce of prevention

It's gotten so you can hardly brush your teeth in the morning without the help of a lawyer. And just talking to one often can cost $100 per hour or more.

Because of the increasing amount of litigation in our society, prepaid legal services and legal insurance are growing in popularity. Both alternatives are aimed at middle-class Americans who can't afford their own lawyers but don't qualify for publicly funded legal assistance.

"Most people think of lawyers as a last resort," said Alec Schwartz, executive director of the Prepaid Legal Services Institute, a nonprofit group affiliated with the American Bar Assn. "The truth is, if you get a lawyer in the game with you early, you may avoid a situation where you absolutely need one. You'll save time, money and grief."

Here's the story on the two plans:

Prepaid legal services, designed to cover routine legal procedures, can give you access to an attorney, often for less than $10 per month.

Available from private companies through many labor unions, employee benefit packages and even department-store credit plans, prepaid legal services generally provide:

--Legal advice. You can find out just what is involved in buying that house or suing that neighbor with the noisy dog.

--Letters to third parties. Sometimes a letter from a lawyer is all that's needed to settle a dispute that could otherwise turn ugly.

--Wills. Even the simplest of wills can run into snags if some legality has been omitted.

"If you get a traffic ticket," said Schwartz, "the most common thing to do is pay it. But if you have a lawyer behind you, you can usually get it reduced or even thrown out. Not only have you saved money, but you've kept your driving record clean as well."

Schwartz said that prepaid legal services usually offer two kinds of coverage:

--Access plans. These provide an attorney's services for consultations, usually over the telephone, and for basic prevention services, such as going over contracts or other documents.

--Comprehensive plans. These make an attorney available for court appearances, such as in small claims court or traffic court, and for more complex legal procedures.

If you need services beyond the plan's coverage, you can be referred to a participating attorney who will charge a reduced rate (usually 25 percent off), according to Schwartz. If you are not satisfied with the referral, he said, you can ask the service for another attorney or choose your own.

"We're trying to make sure the legal needs of the average American are met," said Laurie Scanlon, a spokesperson for the Signature Group, which markets prepaid legal services for Montgomery Ward.

"More than 80 percent of members' legal problems are covered by the plan's prepaid benefits and often at a lower monthly cost than legal insurance," she added.

The biggest difference between prepaid legal services and legal insurance is the amount of service offered, said Pat Maxwell, vice president and general counsel with the Des Moines-based Midwest Legal Services.

In addition to legal advice, document reviews and small-claims assistance, legal insurance covers the fees for some of the more expensive legal assistance, including:

--Bankruptcy, adoption and divorce proceedings;
--Defense against lawsuits, misdemeanor charges, drunk driving charges, and insanity or infirmity proceedings.

--Consumer affairs such as home purchases and automobile "lemon laws."

"There are only a few companies that issue legal insurance policies," said Maxwell. "And since what we issue are insurance policies, our clients are protected by their states' insurance laws."

The best coverage is available through employer-paid packages, said Maxwell. Much of the same coverage also is available through group policies paid by the members."

No matter what kind of legal service program interests you, be sure to shop around and get the coverage best suited for your situation. You don't want to pay for services you won't use, but if you think you're going to need high-powered legal help, don't take chances.

Look for deficit reduction moves in election year

by GARY MEYERS AND ROBERT STENBECK

You can always trust a politician to do what is in his or her best interest during an election year. That's why 1988 will be a year of low interest rates, an expanding economy, a reduced trade deficit and a resulting lower federal budget deficit.

For at least the next year, inflation should not be a factor on the American scene, unemployment should stay close to six percent, the dollar should be relatively stable and American exports will continue to storm foreign markets.

Remember, the politicians in Washington want to handle the federal budget deficit now rather than next year when it could prove embarrassing or politically costly.

Budget deficits are reduced in two ways: by cutting expenditures or by increasing revenues. And there are two ways to increase revenues: by raising taxes or by stimulating the economy so that there is a larger tax base to tax at the old rate.

Here's what they've done so far:

$30 billion this year, $48 billion next year: The 1988-89 budget deficit will be reduced by $30 billion. Next year government spending will be cut by $23 billion, as legislated under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction act, and taxes will be raised by $7 billion.

However, the new tax revenues are supposed to come from increased use and sales taxes, not income taxes.

In 1989, government spending will be reduced by yet another $24 billion, coupled with $24 billion in additional taxes. Where the government will get the additional income is not yet clear. Again, it will either be from tax hikes or increased revenues from a stimulated economy.

Raising taxes in an election year is the last thing any politician wants to do. Therefore, look for the pols to support anything that promotes lower interest rates to stimulate the economy, limiting the need for legislated tax increases or cuts in popular programs.

--Tax hikes traditionally slow the economy. Therefore, lower interest rates are necessary to counter the effects of higher taxes and to keep folks happy and employed.

--Lower interest rates will reduce the government's interest rate expense on the money it borrows, which also reduces budgeted government expenditures.

--Lower interest rates will help keep the dollar's value down, which will allow American exporters to continue recapturing foreign market share--lost as a result of years of damage from an overvalued dollar.

--Lower interest rates also will enable and encourage other industries to gear up production and exports. Sales abroad allow U.S. companies to pay taxes with money earned in other countries. This reduces Congress's need for higher taxes here.

And it's already happening:

--Interest rates continue to fall. After rising slightly last week, yields on Treasury instruments again are decreasing, albeit slowly. The rate declines can be attributed in part to investors seeking the safety of government securities.

--U.S. exports are increasing and the trade deficit is falling. The devalued dollar and increased imports of petroleum have masked some very significant improvements in our foreign-trade picture.

"Take out petroleum imports and you can see that the trade deficit was greatly improved," said Dr. Edward Yardeni, chief economist for Prudential Bache Securities in New York.

"Without oil imports, the real merchandise deficit fell to $75.8 billion during the third quarter of 1987 from $90.2 billion during the second quarter--a reduction of 16 percent in just three months," Yardeni said. "The exports are growing at a 35 percent annual rate."

Economic indicators. The economy keeps gaining:

--The annualized growth in the gross national product for the third quarter was revised up to 4.1 percent from 3.8 percent.

--Personal income in October rose by 1.9 percent, the 17th consecutive monthly gain. October's personal expenditures, up by 0.2 percent, posted their ninth gain in the last 10 months.

--Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in October, after a slight 0.2 percent rise in September. A large part of the October increase came from hikes in the price of new cars.

Savings rates: Yields on certificates of deposit fell slightly this week, according to the Meyers Report survey of savings institutions across the country.

A simple family budget can prevent seeing red

If the very thought of drawing up a family budget is stressful, take heart. Following a few simple steps can make planning a budget much easier and less stressful.

First of all, don't try to put together a complete budget in one sitting, or in one day. Trying to do it all at once is likely to bring on frustration. Don't try to do it alone, either; have spouse and children pitch in.

When setting financial objectives, make sure you have adequate insurance, both life and disability. Also, don't forget to protect home and valuables. A proper insurance policy can help avoid a catastrophic financial loss.

Plan for the future. If your employer has no retirement plan, or an inadequate one, budget for IRA contributions for yourself and your spouse. Take a close look at personal debt level. The combination of rent or mortgage costs and debt payments generally should not exceed 35 percent of monthly salary. If housing costs are high, keep other credit costs low.

Also, make provisions for saving money. After all, that's one of the goals of a budget. Many financial planners recommend saving at least five to ten percent of one's income.

Except for certain fixed costs like rent, mortgage payments and car payments, all budget figures are estimates. As such, they need to be tested for accuracy. For example, the cost of lunches at work or the occasional family meal out may not have been initially accounted for.

With practice, recording daily expenses should only take five minutes.

Long-term nursing care: A national health crisis

Americans are living longer. That is the good news.

Better nutrition, medicine and exercise are expanding life expectancy. The number of Americans 75 and over will nearly double to 17.3 million by the year 2000. Population growth as a whole will increase to 16.5 percent per year through 2000. The age 75-84 age group will grow by 42.9 percent and the over 85 age group by 60.9 percent.

The dilemma in these statistics is that we are building to a crisis in the provision of long-term nursing care. The number of nursing home residents could nearly double by the year 2003.

The real problem in this picture is that private insurance paid less than one percent of the $38.1 billion spent on nursing home care in 1986. Fifty-one percent or $19.4 billion was paid by nursing home residents and their relatives.

Many individuals and couples are seeing retirement funds eliminated by the cost of nursing home stays. The cost of a nursing home stay runs from $1,500 to $2,500 per month, depending upon the location and the facility. It doesn't take long to use up a good portion of a retirement fund when these costs are added to the expenditures of the male who has to maintain a home and a lifestyle as normally as possible.

There is a popular misconception that Medicare will handle this problem. But that is wrong!

Medicare is not designed to provide long term nursing benefits. A person must go to the hospital for a minimum of three days, then go into the nursing home within 14 days following the hospital stay. Even then only a small number of nursing homes are Medicare approved.

If a facility is approved by Medicare, it receives 100 percent for the first 20 days, then anything over $130 per day for 80 days, then nothing. Medicare pays only 2.1 percent of the nations nursing home bills.

The real burden falls on Medicaid, a federal state program that currently pays 41 percent of the nursing home bill nationally. The real problem with this program is that benefits usually depend on an individuals turning over virtually his entire estate to the nursing facility.

Medicare is carefully monitored to ensure that estates are not turned over to relatives prior to entering the nursing facility. Many individuals have had to cash in life insurance policies and sell possessions in order to satisfy Medicaid requirements. An individual on Social Security can keep only $25 per month for personal use and enough to pay Medicaid Part B premiums.

If an individual is poor when entering a nursing home, Medicaid will pay. If the person is rich, perhaps it is not a serious problem. Once again, those of middle income pay the greatest price, maybe sacrificing all or most all of what has been saved over many years.

The insurance industry is just now developing a solution to this problem. Meaningful statistics have not been available, and insurers have not been able to design coverage that will provide adequate benefits and still be profitable.

Some policies are sold with very short benefit periods. These will do nothing to solve the problem of long term care costs. There are currently 30 companies offering some sort of nursing home or long term care coverage, but benefits don't, in most cases, amount to much. There are many disclaimers, restrictions, deductibles and pre-existing conditions.

Most policies pay benefits, if any, for only one to three years. Only one or two have coverage for as long as five years. None yet have "lifetime" coverage.

Only a few insurance professionals have studied these policies and are capable of advising clients. Like so many other products designed for sale to seniors, this area is fraught with deceptive products and sales techniques.

One very positive step has been the issuance of a booklet on long term care insurance by a national association of insurance professionals. It is imperative that anyone within several years of possible nursing care age carefully consider the impact of this on their financial well being, and seek out the counsel of an insurance professional who understands this type of coverage.

New tax law restricts IRA deduction amount

Retirement plans have undergone significant changes as a result of tax reform. There are new restrictions on who is eligible to deduct Individual Retirement Account (IRA) contributions and how much can be deducted, while the changes affecting other plans have been less dramatic.

Two factors determine whether one qualifies for an IRA deduction and how much can be deducted. The first is whether a person or their spouse is covered by a retirement plan at work, and the second factor is adjusted gross income (AGI).

If a person is not an active participant in a qualified retirement plan, they may contribute and deduct up to $2,000 of earnings per year. If a spouse does not earn any compensation, $2,250 may be contributed to a spousal IRA.

If both spouses are employed, each can contribute up to $2,000 of earned income to their own account. As long as they are not covered by a retirement plan, a full deduction is allowed regardless of income.

If husband and wife are both covered by a retirement plan, they may still contribute to an IRA, but the amount deductible depends on AGI.

Free barn dance lessons at Midwinter Breakdown

An old time, traditional barn dance, the Midwinter Breakdown, will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 9 at the Park Dist. Bldg., 32 S. Seymour in downtown Grayslake. There will be a free lesson preceding the dance from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Live music will be provided by Ron Brown on fiddle and his wife Sandy on guitar while the old time dances will be called by "Uncle" Roy Reinholds.

They will play old time tunes that have been danced to by Americans of yesteryear at grange halls, old barns and big city lodge halls and ballrooms.

Barn dancing differs from modern "mainstream" and "plus" square dancing in that there is always live music at barn dances and the dances are traditional. Costume is not important.

All age groups, with or without partners or square dancing experience are invited to attend the Midwinter Breakdown. When needed, the old time figures will be walked through before dancing. Come to the dance and enjoy a folk tradition that people of North America have enjoyed since the founding of this country.

This is the fourth in the current series of old time barn dances presented the second Saturday of the month. Next month there will be a Valentine's Barn Dance on Feb. 9. The admission for each dance is $3 a person. The lessons are free.

The park district building is located just west of the Soo Line Railroad tracks and one-half block south of Center Street, in downtown Grayslake. For more information about barn dancing, call Uncle Roy, (312)223-2081.

Glamorous benefit

At a meeting of the Women's Council of the Chicago Heart Assn. goal of $125,000 was announced for the sixth annual Heart Ball to be held on Feb. 12, at the Drake Hotel. The evening's theme will be "Glamour" as displayed by Mrs. John F. Cuneo of Grayslake modeling fur from York Furriers. One will be awarded as prize along with others from Sabena Belgian World Airlines.

Slate fourth square dance of new series

The Midwinter Breakdown will be held at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 9, at the Grayslake Park Dist. Building, 32 South Seymour in downtown Grayslake.

This is the fourth in the current series of old time barn dances presented by the Grayslake Community Park Dist. the second Saturday of the month.

The remaining dances in the series are on Feb. 13, Valentine's Barn Dance; March 12, Spring Hoedown; and on April 9, Last Chance Barn Dance (till fall).

There will be live music by Ron Brown on fiddle and his wife Sandy on guitar while the old time dances will be called by "uncle" Roy Reinholds.

Everyone with or without square dancing experience is welcome. When needed, the old time dances and figures will be walked through before dancing. In addition, free lessons will be held at 7 p.m., just before the dance.

The concert, which is a benefit for the RSO, will be at 8 p.m. at the Coronado Theater. Watts will play Brahms' Piano Concerto Nr. 1. Also on the program are Overture to Semiramide by Rossini and Dvorak's Symphony Nr. 9, "New World."

He will play works by Beethoven, Liszt, and Rachmaninoff with the New York Philharmonic.

ASK TONI

Jimmy Smits starred in 'Miami Vice' pilot

By Toni Reinhold

Is Jimmy Smits of "L.A. Law" married? What else can you tell me about him? Where can I write to him? - B.L.A., Menton, Ohio

Jimmy Smits

Smits, who plays Victor Sifuentes on the hit series, is in the process of getting divorced. He has two children: Taina, 13, and Joaquin, age 4. He was born on July 9, 1958, in New York City, and now has homes in Brooklyn and Los Angeles. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 196 pounds. He earned a bachelor's degree at Brooklyn College and a master of fine arts degree at Cornell University in upstate New York. He then returned to New York City, where he appeared off-Broadway. In 1984, he played the partner of Sonny Crockett (Don Johnson) in the pilot of "Miami Vice," but his character was killed off, making way for Ricardo Tubbs (Philip Michael Thomas). His film credits include "Running Scared" (1986) and "The Believers" (1987). In his spare time he plays football, basketball and softball. Send mail to him in care of "L.A. Law," Twentieth Century-Fox Studios, Box 900, Beverly Hills, CA 90213.

How old is Sally Jesse Raphael? - E.F., Iron Mountain, Mich.

The syndicated talk-show host is 44 years old.

What is the title of the movie from the 1930s that starred Wallace Beery and Robert Taylor? - D.M., Washingtonville, N.Y.

I think you mean "West Point of the Air" (1935), which also featured Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, James Gleason and Rosalind Russell.

Who co-starred with Audrey Hepburn in "Breakfast at Tiffany's"? Was it Cary Grant or Bill Holden? - B.M., Port Orange, Fla.

It was neither. Hepburn's co-star in this 1961 film was George Peppard. The movie also starred Patricia Neal, Buddy Ebsen and Mickey Rooney. The film's score, by Henry Mancini, featured "Moon River," which won an Oscar as Best Song.

Who plays Christine Sullivan on "Night Court"? - T.S., Greensboro, N.C.

Markie Post plays the attractive district attorney.

HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME
Weekly Tip: Only make resolutions you will stick with!

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Your duties in the public light call you now; make sure you're looking as spiffy as you can. Make sure you straighten out any matters with your family.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) You will find yourself basking in the limelight this New Year. If you take some time to gather your thoughts, you will stand up to the harshest criticism.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your ideas for that special party you've been toting over are terrific! Those lucky people you invite into your home are sure to have a fantastic time.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) The start of the New Year is sure to snap you out of any rut you've been in. If you're itching for a quick trip, why not do it over the holiday vacation?

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) You've got the feeling someone's taking advantage of you; talk this matter out and you will have a clear head. Forge ahead into the New Year easily.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Get your slate clean with those people you care about, and the New Year will prove beneficial to all involved. Keep your appearances up.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You can easily improve the home situation by talking things over with your family. If finances are rocky now, rest assured the New Year will ease things.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) If your love life has hit the skids lately, never fear; the New Year promises to be filled with long overdue romance. Shake things up around the office.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) If you've been miserable company lately, you'd better snap out of it in time for the holiday obligations facing you. People will be watching.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You must clear your desk since 1988 promises to bring you a heavy workload, as well as more responsibility, at the office and in your personal life.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You are in dire need of crucial advice. Go to someone whom you trust implicitly for strong, solid answers. Do not turn to someone in desperation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) You've made a formidable plan of attack concerning your profession; stick to it and things should go well. The New Year will provide new alternatives.

If you were born this week, you are undoubtedly a person whose stamina and drive are only exceeded by your desire to always finish first. This, however, produces loose ends all too often, and your endeavors almost always have sloppy endings.

Hartigan urges CHIP's board to finalize plan

Attorney General Neil Hartigan, who drafted and fought for the new Illinois Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan (CHIP), is urging CHIP's Board of Directors to finalize the plan promptly and make its sorely needed benefits available to Illinois citizens.

CHIP, which became law on Feb. 9, creates a health insurance pool for Illinois citizens who have previously been uninsurable or had to pay exorbitant premiums because of diabetes, arthritis, heart disease, sickle cell anemia, cancer or other conditions considered "high risk" by the insurance industry.

"In September, an amendment to the law was signed into effect," Hartigan said. "The delay necessary to obtain that amendment was well worth it, because both taxpayers and participants in the plan will benefit from the amendment's provisions."

"The amendment provides for a 'family rate' when at least one family member qualifies under the plan, continued Hartigan. "It also gives the board of directors the flexibility to create other options, such as HMO's, when they are in the best interests of CHIP participants or increase the cost-efficiency of the plan."

Hartigan said the most urgent matters for the board to address are establishing criteria to select an insurance carrier for the plan, setting a timetable for reviewing bids and making the selection, building cost-containment features into the plan, and making certain that there is a solid program for receiving and resolving grievances from the public once the plan is in place.

"Organizations and citizens throughout Illinois worked with my office, put in long hours, and fought hard to make the dream of CHIP a reality," Hartigan said. "They deserve prompt and conscientious action from the board."

The Disabled Persons Advocacy Division of Hartigan's office has prepared information explaining the plan's coverage in detail. Interested persons can obtain this information by phoning the division.

Likes change

Warren Twp. High School wrestling coach Mark Tiffany is one mentor who likes the upcoming realignment of wrestling weight classes by the ISHA. "It will help," Tiffany said of the changes.

Like most coaches, Tiffany admits he had some mixed emotions about the new class system. Classes will start at 103 pounds and end at heavyweight. In between, the classes will be: 112, 119, 125, 130, 135, 140, 145, 152, 160, 171 and 189 pounds.

NWSC showdown reminder

Just a reminder for Round Lake basketball fans that the game against Marengo originally scheduled for Dec. 15 has been changed to Jan. 11. The contest, which will likely be a showdown for first place in the Northwest Suburban, will begin with the sophs playing at 6 p.m. and the varsity at 7:30 p.m.

Foss update

Lake Zurich graduate Lisa Foss is still the leading scorer for Northern Illinois University's women's basketball team. Foss, a 5-7 sophomore guard, is averaging 19.3 points and 2.6 rebounds a game. The Huskies are 3-5 after eight games, losing to defending national champion Tennessee 103-76 and the University of Cincinnati 80-56 on the road.

College notes

Heather Dunbar, a junior at St. Joseph's College in Rensselaer, ID, has won a varsity monogram for volleyball. Dunbar is a graduate of Grayslake Community High School.

Steven Pape, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Pape of Mundelein, was one of eight Lake Forest College athletes named to all-conference teams. Pape, a sophomore defensive end, was named honorable mention for the all Midwest College Athletic Conference team. He led the Foresters with nine sacks.

Looking back

As the calendar turns, here is a salute to the top five sporting accomplishments of 1987.

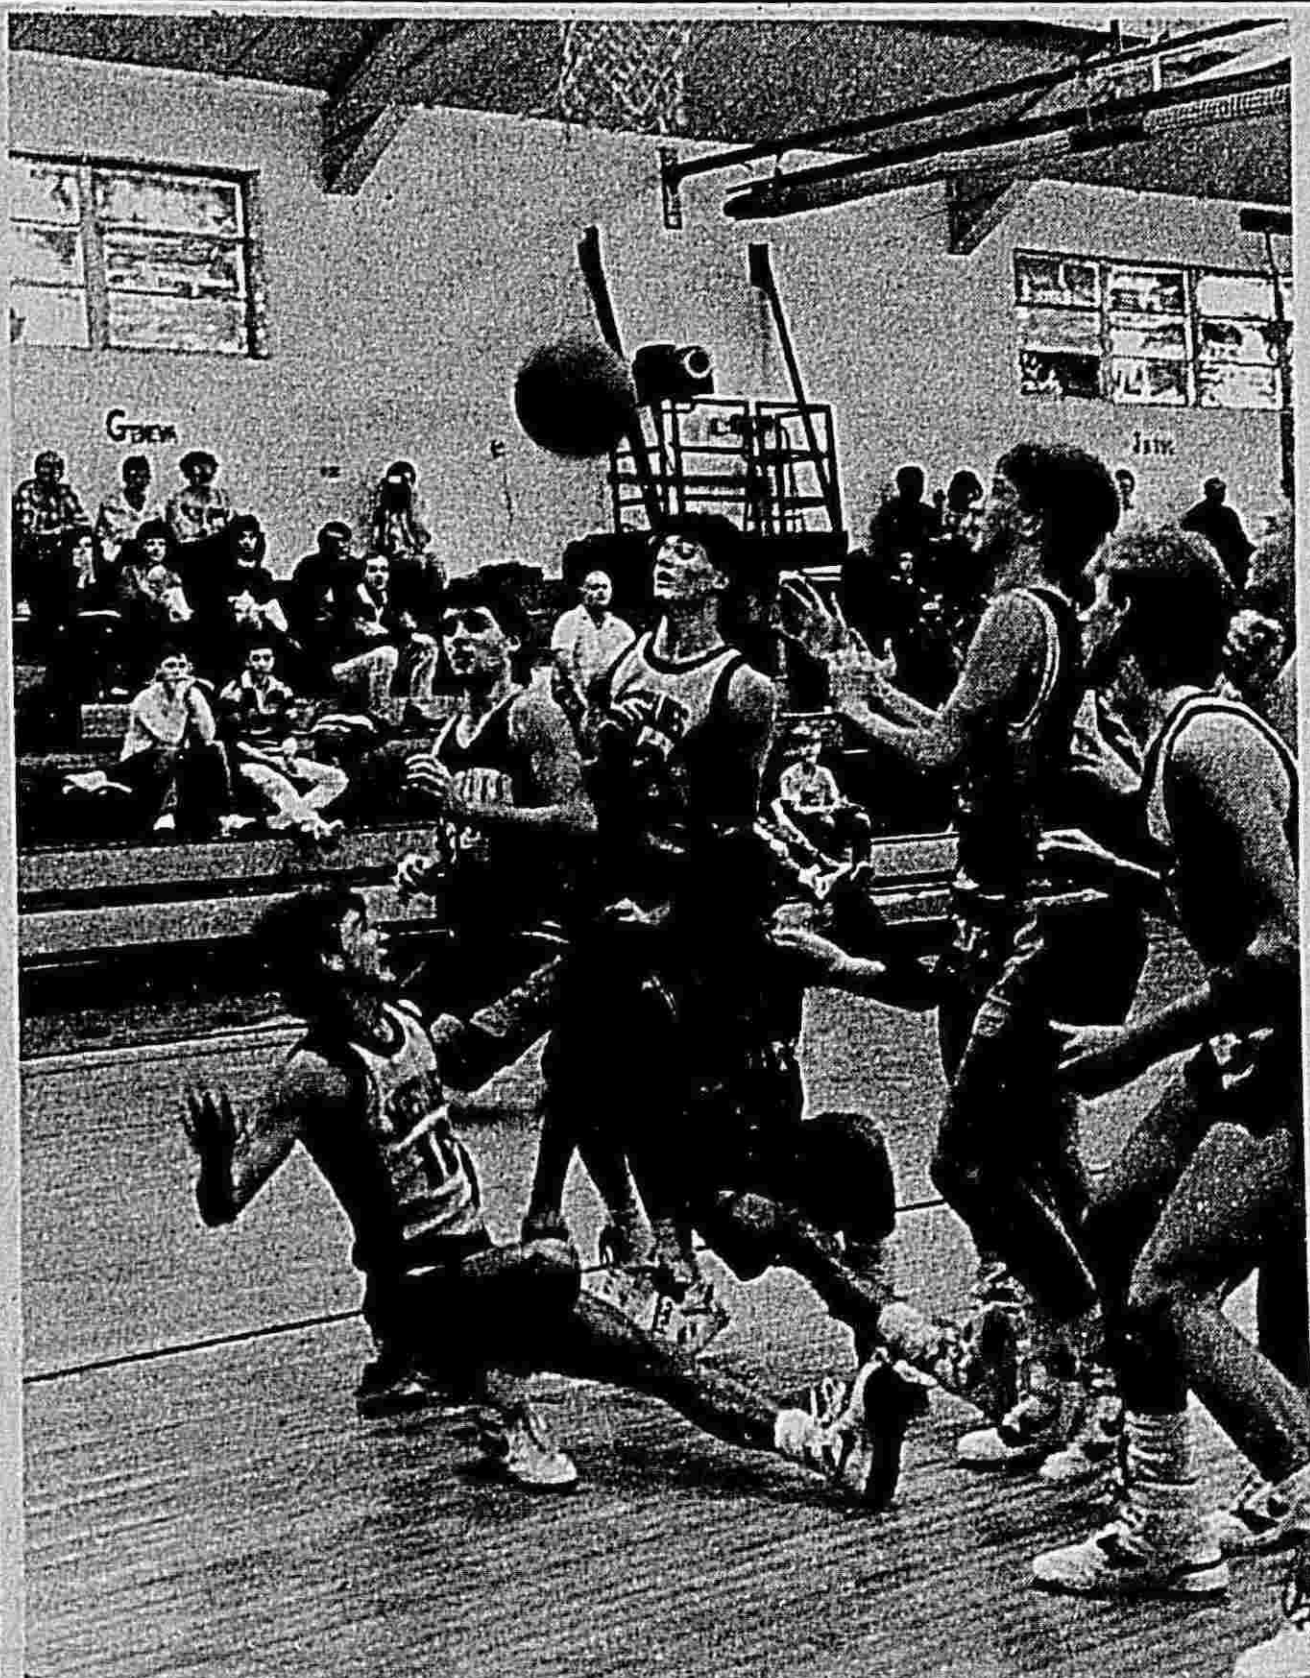

Mundelein girls softball team, behind pitching of Susan Musselwhite, advanced to Sweet Sixteen. Mustangs were just six outs away from Elite Eight before New Trier rallied to win supersectional game.

Grant's boys basketball team finished 1986-87 season with 20-4 record, best among area teams. Bulldogs won Northwest Suburban Conference title. In most exciting game of season, Grant held back Round Lake rally to win regional final in double overtime.

In girls basketball, Warren and Antioch both won regional championships. For Warren, it was Blue Devils' first regional crown ever.

In football, Lake Zurich finished 6-3 and made state playoffs for first time in school's history.

There were several individual football performances worth remembering. At Warren, Derek Shelton became the No. 4 passer in the state. Antioch's David Wick, Grant's Kevin Frystak, Stevenson's Chris Holder and Carmel's Donell Foster all deserve mention.

Battle for loose ball

The basketball is a valuable commodity for Johnsborg and Mundelein players as both teams battle for control of ball. Mundelein's J.T. Mathwig (10) and Tim Ulrich appear to have best chances for Mustangs. Johnsborg's Tom Oefling, Tom Valant and Trevor Hart lead Skyhawks' efforts. Round Lake's defense shuts down 3 foes

If there is one axiom in basketball, it is that consistent defense wins games.

Just ask the Round Lake Panthers. Round Lake has won nine of 12 games for the 1987 portion of the 1987-88 season and the stingy Panthers allowed four opponents an average of 52.2 points per game at the Hampshire Holiday Classic. Those numbers were good enough for a third-place trophy as a late Christmas present for Round Lake.

"We played well throughout the tournament," Round Lake coach Bob Ward said after his team defeated Glenbard East 64-54 for the third-place trophy.

The Panthers started the tournament by crushing Elgin Academy 67-43 and Geneva 72-59. Even in the team's loss to host Hampshire 53-50, the defensive average was not hurt.

Consistent offensive play helps of course as well. The Panthers are led by a one-two punch of 6-8 Brian Richardson from the inside and 5-11 Frank Russell, who pops his shots in from beyond the three-point marker. Heading into the game against the Glenbard East Rams, Russell led all tournament hotshots with nine three-pointers, good for 27 points.

But when it counted, it was defense that provided the 'W'.

Take, for example, the last five minutes against the Rams. With the third-place hardware at stake, the Panthers allowed only one Glenbard East field goal over that span.

"The defense played well down the stretch," Ward said.

Meanwhile, the Panthers were continually being sent to the free-throw line and they responded as if they were playing in a no-pressure pick-up game. Round Lake made eight-of-nine free throws, building up a 10-point lead that had been cut to five late in the third quarter. Tim Dunn showed the way, making a perfect seven-for-seven free throws in the final eight minutes.

Richardson led the Panthers with 22 points on nine field goals. He also was a force underneath whenever a Glenbard East shot went array. Richardson finished with 10 defensive rebounds, or second shots the Rams never got.

Tim Unroe, a 6-3 senior forward, also played a solid game, finishing with 15 points.

This one featured several momentum changes. Despite five first-quarter turnovers, Round Lake led 17-10 after eight minutes and quickly led by 10 in the second quarter.

Glenbard East rallied, cutting eight points off the 10-point margin and trailed just 32-30 at halftime.

Round Lake regained control after intermission. A Richardson hoop made it 40-32 with just under five minutes left in the third quarter. Glenbard East did not quit, cutting the lead back down to three before an Unroe hoop made it 44-39 Round Lake after three.

A layup by Unroe increased the margin back to nine midway through the fourth quarter. The Rams made a brief run, but that was before it was showtime for Round Lake's defense.

Mustangs settle for sixth place

Mundelein's basketball team learned a timely lesson when the Mustangs battled Geneva for fifth place in Hampshire's Holiday Classic.

The Mustangs learned that it takes 32 minutes of solid basketball to win most games, not 16 as the Mustangs showed in a 65-53 loss. The defeat gave Mundelein a 2-2 record in its four trips to Hampshire and a 4-7 overall record heading into the 1988 portion of the season.

"It was a disappointing loss. We got ourselves in a hole in the first half but played a good second half," Mundelein coach Dennis Kessel said afterward.

The Mustangs opened the Hampshire tournament with a 58-51 win over Cary-Grove. They then took a taller Glenbard East team to overtime before losing 46-42. After a 60-57 win over Johnsborg kept the Mustangs' hopes alive, Kessel & Co. was hoping to come away with three wins in four outings.

But Geneva's Vikings jumped off to a 21-8 lead with two minutes left in the first quarter and led 23-14 after eight minutes. That was the hole that Kessel was talking about.

Mundelein began to show signs of life in the second quarter. They forced the Vikings into four turnovers, but directly received just two points for their defensive efforts. A fastbreak layup by J. T. Mathwig, who was named to the all-tournament team, cut the gap to 33-23 at halftime.

Geneva was held to just three field goals through the first four minutes of the third quarter. A 10 footer by Mathwig trimmed the lead to six points.

Doug Sundell registered what could be the first five-point play in the state this year to tie the game. Sundell sank a three-point shot and was allowed to go to the line, although the foul was away from the play. Sundell sank both freebies to tie the contest at 43-43 with 1:15 left, the last time Mundelein would be even.

Geneva scored the first three field goals of the fourth quarter. A 17 footer by Dave Smith brought the Mustangs to within one. But then Mundelein went silent from the floor, not scoring for more than two minutes. That allowed Geneva to build up an eight-point lead.

Mathwig and Sundell both scored 18 points, but were the only Mustangs to score in double figures.

A look at Mundelein's other games at Hampshire:

Mundelein 60, Johnsborg 57:

Mundelein used a fourth-quarter run to build a 10-point lead against the Skyhawks and then fought back as Johnsborg launched three-pointers.

Brandon Cajthaml pumped in 17 points for Johnsborg, including five three-pointers.

"That's what kept them in the game," Kessel said.

Mundelein led just 41-40 in the third quarter but a Mathwig layup with :15 left increased the lead to three, 43-40 after three.

Mundelein began to pull away with 4:35 left when Sundell scored for a 51-45 margin. Sundell then began a Mundelein parade to the free-throw line to increase the lead to 10.

The Mustangs were sharp from the free-throw line when Mundelein had to be, making seven-of-eight for a four minute stretch.

"We had nice free-throw shooting down the stretch. That's the kind of thing that wins or losses games," Kessel said.

A three-pointer by Cajthaml at the buzzer made the final margin three points.

Lake Zurich, Johnsburg fade after tourney victories

What started on positive notes ended as holiday blues for Lake Zurich and Johnsburg.

The Bears and the Skyhawks started the Hampshire Holiday Classic with wins - Lake Zurich beating Genoa-Kingston, Johnsburg edging Hinckley-Big Rock, but ended with two losses.

The Bears started the Hampshire tournament by downing Genoa 55-43. The Bears took a 21-11 lead at halftime and held on from there.

Scott Krzeminski had 16 points to lead the attack with Martin Milner following with 15. Troy Hines also was in double figures, scoring 13.

Against Hampshire, the Bears fought back from a five-point deficit in the second quarter to gain a 28-28 halftime tie. A tip-in by Hines, who had 12 points, secured the tie.

Hampshire started to pull away in the third quarter, gaining a seven-point margin before Lake Zurich cut it to three.

In the fourth quarter, Lake Zurich had a rash of four turnovers and that's all Hampshire needed to build up a 10-point lead en route to a 63-51 win.

Milner had 18 to lead the Bears.

"We just could not put the ball in the hole. At times we did everything but put the ball in there," Lake Zurich coach John Nesheim said.

Geneva then eliminated the Bears 74-54 to advance to the fifth place title game, which the Vikings won. The two losses left the Bears with a 4-9 record heading into 1988.

Johnsburg may start the 1988 portion of the season off on an even 5-5 record overall, but the Skyhawks were also hoping for better things after the first round at Hampshire.

Following a 63-59 win over Hinckley, the Skyhawks ran into a bigger Jacobs team and lost 55-43. The Skyhawks stayed somewhat even with the Golden Eagles in the first quarter, trailing 13-12 after eight minutes. Jacobs extended its lead to seven points at halftime and after both teams scored seven third-quarter points, hung on from there.

"We showed signs of doing some good things at Hampshire. We need to do a little better job of getting the ball inside," Johnsburg coach Jeff Lewiston said.

Tom Valant led Johnsburg's scoring against Jacobs with 13 points and Chris Diedrich, the team's leading scorer, added 12.

Against Mundein, the Skyhawks fell victim to Mundein's press early and trailed 8-2 in the opening minutes.

Johnsburg, thanks to three-point shots, rallied and trailed 18-15 after one and gained a brief lead in the second quarter on a 10-footer by Tom Oeffling. Mundein's J. T. Mathwig scored with one second left in the second quarter for a 29-28 Mundein halftime advantage.

Another Oeffling hoop gave Johnsburg a one-point lead to start the second half, but the lead did not last long. Johnsburg came within one point twice in the third quarter but could not get over the hump.

Bulldogs need work on shooting: coach

After Grant split four games at DeKalb's Holiday Tournament, coach Tom Maple and the rest of the Bulldogs are looking at the journey as either half-full or half-empty.

The Bulldogs came home with an 11th-place finish, but one problem was the same in all losses.

"Poor field goal percentage and poor free-throw percentage plagued us in both losses," Maple, whose team is now 6-5, said.

Grant emerged from the DeKalb meet, where they placed fifth last year, with wins over Dixon 49-39 and an easy 81-36 victory over Sycamore's Junior Varsity. Grant fell to Montini in the tournament opener 61-50 and to Sycamore's varsity 63-54.

"We did not play real badly in the tournament but I'm not sure we made progress either," Maple said.

An example of Grant's shooting woes is the Sycamore contest against the Spartans' varsity. Grant could manage just nine-for-15 from the free-throw line and 22 of 61 from the field, 36 percent.

"That was the key game in the tournament. We just shot terribly," Maplesaid.

Another factor in both losses was poor fourth-quarter play. Against Sycamore, the Bulldogs led 40-39 after three but was outscored 24-14 in the final stanza.

Against Montini, the third quarter did the Bulldogs in. At halftime, Grant led 31-25 but could only manage four third-quarter points.

On the positive side, the four contests did feature the emergence of John Wilhelm as a leading scoring threat.

"He's really starting to help out. At 6-1, he's our big forward. It's a tough assignment. He has to guard someone taller than him on defense and he is averaging close to double figures," Maple said of the senior.

A look at the four contests:

Montini 61, Grant 50:
Tony Cullotta had 16 points and Wilhelm scored 11 for the Bulldogs, who led until the third quarter.

Grant 49, Dixon 39:
Cullotta had 18 points and Wilhelm had 15 as the Bulldogs evened their tournament record at 1-1. Grant led 8-6 after eight minutes and extended the margin in the second quarter to 22-17 at halftime. The two teams then fought to a standstill in the second half.

Sycamore 63, Grant 54:
Cullotta's 24 points were not enough as

Carmel girls searching for consistent play in 1988

As far as Carmel coach Bob Haukedahl and the Carmel girls basketball team is concerned, the key to the Corsairs upcoming Christmas tournament and, for that matter, the rest of the 1987-88 season, can be summed up in one word: consistency.

"We just have not had that consistency," Haukedahl said.

That may sound strange coming from a team who just recorded a 81-57 win at Grayslake and has a 7-4 overall record. But in some ways, even with a lopsided final score, the Grayslake game showed the inconsistency the coach was talking about.

The Corsairs led just 35-33 at halftime before making defensive adjustments that turned the game around. And they were coming off a 58-54 loss to St. Viator.

"We went to a triangle-and-two to shutdown Nancy Brenner and Kristi Balsius," Haukedahl said.

At the other end, the Corsairs used their height advantage to put on a show on offense. Tracie Godwin finished with 22 points and nine rebounds, Michelle Bruns had 17, Stephanie Seier had 13 to lead the way.

In the first half, though, Grayslake stayed even by using a pressing defense. Carmel committed four first-quarter turnovers.

Carmel girls plan to 'Pack The Place'

Carmel High School for Girls in Mundelein has scheduled Jan. 12 for its "Pack The Place". The Corsairs will battle rival Regina Dominican in the Carmel gym. The junior varsity contest will begin at 5 p.m. with the varsity contest starting at 6:30 p.m.

A special bonus attraction will be held between games when faculty members will be participating in a free-throw contest. Each participant will be given 15 minutes to make as many baskets as possible. Money pledged to the faculty will be donated to several different charities.

Mundelein gymnasts tops

Mundelein's gymnastics team made it four-out-of-five in dual meets last week with a North Suburban Conference win over Stevenson.

The Mustangs are off until they resume NSC duals at Antioch Jan. 6.

Mundelein used its depth to its advantage in a 127.4 - 104 win over the Patriots in a home meet.

In the vault, Michelle Strahn's 8.8 and Kelsy Sullivan's 8.6 were good enough for second and third place.

Overall, Sullivan was first with an 8.65.

Shooting over defense

Warren's Derek Shelton has his eyes on the basket as he prepares to shoot against Libertyville. Wildcats' Todd Adams tries to provide defense. Shelton, a senior, scored 11 points to lead Blue Devils in 54-34 win. — Photo by Steve Peterson.
